By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

Lloyd George tells the Commons the labor situation in England is worse than at any time since the Napoleonic wars, "1,750,000 persons are unemployed." We have three times as many unemployed here and are not especially excited about it—although we may become excited later.

Lloyd George asks Parliament to give him a million and a half pounds to send soldiers to settle in the British colonies, where the government has already located 60,000. They take unemployment seriously over there and actually do things. Our specialty is discussion. At this particular moment we are apparently driving into a railroad strike, for which there is absolutely no excuse.

Mrs. Constance Moffett wanted a divorce from William. Judge Mandell told her she was the green-eyed monster's victim and imagined things. Silly jealousy was the judge's verdict. "Go home and patch it up." A judge must be wise to know when jealousy is foolish or sound. "The heart knoweth his own bitterness" and the wife knoweth her own husband.

The judge sympathized with husband William, who packed up and moved because his wife was so jealous. Far above human weaknesses, the judge doesn't know that "righteous indignation" is the strong suit of husbands, especially when guilty.

The peace treaty with Germany is signed, one war is officially over. The other war, between railroad owners and workmen threatening to fight out their little quarrel on the chest of the public, is still menacing.

The President intends to prevent it if there is in the government legal authority to do so. One group of 15,000 men on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the highly important trainmen, refuse to join the strike. This indicates division among the workers that may prevent effective action.

If that railroad war should go through to a finish it might injure this country, through stagnation of business, lack of employment and stirring up of class hatred, more than the country was injured by the late war.

The National Spiritualist Association is holding its annual meeting in Detroit, and spirits are rising to the occasion. A respectable crowd of ghosts located the meeting in the armory and sent special messages to Miss Susie C. Clark and others.

If ten million dead from the battlefields could rise and walk through the streets of the world's cities, trailing their bloody garments, with ten million others killed by the flu following and sneezing in the rear, that would perhaps make the world realize that war, international or industrial, does not pay.

A public official, seeking evidence against Artuckle in connection with a deadly, drunken orgy, encounters a sad, personal loss. Somebody stole his handbag containing important papers and a bottle of whiskey. Long ago, shipwrecked sailors on the French coast, seeing on the skyline a gibbet and dangling skeleton, exclaimed fervently, "Thank God, we have reached civilization."

Will the future American, crawling up from the wreck and welcomed by the local bootlegger, say "Thank God, I have reached civilization!"

What is the character of railroad workers whose wages are to be cut? What kind of fight would they probably put up if all went out? While the war was on Mr. Stone, chief of the locomotive engineers, was asked to supply forty volunteer engineers to run war tanks. "men almost willing to commit suicide."

Mr. Stone immediately furnished the names of 400 in his union anxious to go. A pity that such men be compelled to strike, against the people and the industries of their own country, in the effort to retain part of the wage increase that the war gave them.

Straws blowing in the right direction are welcome in these days. In Detroit eleven out of fourteen industries are increasing the size of their payrolls. Hosiery, underwear, cigar manufacturing, cotton building, steel, cotton finishing, paper making are included in the industries using now more men than a month ago.

Robbery of the Hamilton Bank in Toronto shows that highwaymen count on public indifference or cowardice. Five men, wearing no masks, hold up the bank. One coolly searches all the drawers, wraps $3,000 in a newspaper, with bank employes and spectators looking on. And all escaped in a big automobile. The same men could not have entered the den of a lioness to steal her cubs, they know the lioness would fight. A man with a revolver could fight better than any lioness, but men are not lions. That fact encourages banditry.

RAIL MEN SEE HOPE OF PEACE

"Big Four" Chiefs Decide at Conference That Trouble Can be Settled

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press) The prospective rail strike cannot be postponed, but it can be settled.

This was the opinion of the four big brotherhood chiefs and the president of the Switchmen's Union after a conference today, at which, it was learned, they had considered all possible phases of the situation as they may be presented at the meeting with the United States Railroad Labor Board.

The conference of the chiefs was held before the opening of the Railroad Labor Board conference.

Union headquarters was optimistic and there was a strongly evident feeling that there would be no strike, unless something unexpected occurs to disrupt the conference.

Present at the union conference were Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and T. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America.

The eleven "standard" unions marked time today awaiting the outcome of the Labor Board meeting. While a few of their general chairmen met to discuss strike plans, the majority crowded the hearing rooms of the Labor Board to see the Pennsylvania Railroad cited for failure to obey the board's orders.

Pennsylvania Disputes Jurisdiction of Board

SOMERVILLE MAN SUICIDE IN WEST END HOTEL

Sanford G. West, twenty-eight years old, No. 221 Summer street, Somerville, was found dead in a bed in a room in the rear of the fourth floor of the Hotel Thorndike, No. 73 Green street, West End. West had a gas tube in his mouth. The medical examiner pronounced West a suicide.

Attempt to Wreck New Haven Train at Easthampton

Westfield, Oct. 20.—An attempt to wreck a passenger train on the New Haven, near Easthampton, by piling a number of ties across the tracks, was frustrated today when the engineer of a locomotive saw the ties and stopped his train.

The ties were removed and the train proceeded after a delay. An investigation has been started by the railroad officials and the police.

SENATORS IN DANGER AS PLASTER FALLS

Washington, Oct. 20.—Senators Pomerene, Democrat, of Ohio, and Swanson, Democrat, of Virginia, narrowly escaped serious injury today when large sections of plaster fell from the ceiling of the President's room off the Senate chamber. Pomerene and Swanson were struck with heavy pieces of plaster and glass, but escaped injury. The Senators were on a divan when the plaster over the chandelier suddenly gave way, carrying with it several feet of the mural decorations on the ceiling, breaking a number of crystals, bulbs and globes and showering the room with large fragments.

FIST FIGHT IN FRENCH CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

Paris, Oct. 20.—Violent uproar broke out in the Chamber of Deputies today when debate was renewed upon the government's general policy. Deputy Wendel of the Clemenceau faction attacked M. Escoffier, a Socialist deputy, punching him in the jaw. There was a wild outburst of cheering and jeering. The President had to adjourn debate until order was restored.

BANDITS HOLD UP MAN AND GIRL IN LEXINGTON

Two armed bandits early today held up H. B. Howard, of No. 44 Bromfield street, Boston, as he was driving along Follen road, East Lexington, in company with a young woman. The bandits failed to get $50 which the young woman had with her. One of the robbers is described as being about twenty-five years old, and the other as a boy in his teens.

PELLETIER REFUSED BY ALLEN

Turns Down District Attorney's Demand for Copy of Bar Association's Charges

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen today notified District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier that he would not turn over to him the Bar Association report demanding his removal.

Pelletier had demanded a copy of this report as a right.

Allen's reason in his refusal was the following letter: "You must be aware that neither a district attorney nor any private individual has a right to demand information from the attorney-general relating to matters upon which it may be his duty to act on behalf of the Commonwealth."

Allen's letter follows: "I have considered your recent letter in which you state: 'I feel that I have a right to demand a copy of the report made to you by the Bar Association.'

"During the interval since your letter was received I have taken occasion to make some inquiry of the Bar Association with respect to the conditions under which the report was made.

"Although you have made the demand in your capacity as District Attorney and have so signed the letter, I assume you are aware that, in so far as the report related to you it concerns only your personal conduct of the office of District Attorney.

"I may further point out that it is not a report to me as stated in your letter, but is in report of a sub-committee to its grievance committee of the Bar Association, which was transmitting to me by the council for my information in determining what action I might deem proper to take in the premises.

"The report concerns you only in part and deals with other matters and persons, with respect to which the Bar Association has seen fit to act upon its own behalf and which are now pending in the Supreme Judicial Court.

"And also with respect to persons against whom no charges have been filed. After going into the matter, I feel it my duty not to accede to your demand.

"You must be aware that neither the district attorney nor any private individual has a right to demand information from the attorney-general relating to matters upon which it may be his duty to act on behalf of the Commonwealth.

"I am informed that you were furnished with a copy of the evidence before the grievance committee. The report merely summarizes the evidence and states the conclusions of the committee upon the evidence before them.

"As you are aware, it is not the usual practice to furnish a person who is or may be accused the evidence upon which the complaints against him are based, but in the present case, you have not only been furnished with the evidence, but were offered full opportunity by the Bar Association to be present at the hearings which concerned you, and failed to avail yourself of the privilege.

"Under these circumstances, the fact that I must decline to accede to your demand cannot prejudice you.

"Respectfully yours,

"J. WESTON ALLEN."

Radicals in Europe Hope to Free Sacco and Vanzetti in Bay State by Threatening Ambassadors

RADICAL MOBS ARE ROUTED BY POLICE

Embassies in England, Italy, Belgium and France Get Warnings

By International News Service.

Paris, Oct. 20.—A systematic campaign of terrorism against American diplomats in continental Europe by Communists is in full swing today, following the attempt to assassinate Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France.

Death threats have been received by the American diplomats in London, Paris, Brussels and Rome.

A Brussels dispatch today said:

"A heavy police guard was put around the United States embassy here today as the result of a hostile demonstration by Communists.

"Crowds surged before the embassy, shouting:

"'Release Sacco and Vanzetti!'

"They grew so threatening that extra policemen were rushed to the scene, and the mobs were dispersed with batons."

A mob of several thousand persons singing revolutionary songs, and waving red flags, attacked the American Consulate at Brest today.

A number of windows were broken by flying missiles. Police were rushed to the scene and restored order. A police guard was placed about the building.

"Release Sacco and Vanzetti!" shouted the mob.

The consulate was bombarded with stones. It took the police nearly an hour to disperse the infuriated demonstrators. A number of persons were slightly injured. The ringleaders were arrested.

The demonstrations constituted a protest against the conviction in Massachusetts of Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, two Italians, for the murder of Frederick A. Parmenter, paymaster of a shoe concern at Braintree, Mass.

Extra police guards were thrown about the American embassy in this

PROTEST BOOST OF RENTS IN EVERETT

Fifty tenants of the Coolidge Real Estate Trust, owners of several apartments in Everett, today sent to Governor Cox a written protest against "the outrageous and unreasonable advances in our rents."

Governor Cox turned over the complaint to the Commission on the Necessaries of Life and the officers of the Real Estate Trust were ordered to appear at a public hearing next Tuesday morning to justify their alleged exactions.

The tenants said they engaged their apartments from the Belmont Hill Association. The property was later taken over by the Coolidge Real Estate Trust, and rents increased from $22 to $28. They have received notices of an increase to $35, they said, and, upon their refusal to pay, many have been ordered to get out.

WIFE SEES MAN CRUSHED BY DERRICK BOOM

Alfonso Caruso, a fellow workman, was seriously injured and was taken to the City Hospital.

Mrs. Ahearn collapsed after the accident. Mrs. Ahearn did not at first appreciate its seriousness and when she did learn it she fainted. The Ahearns live at No. 141 Worcester street, South End. Ahearn was 52 years old.

The boom fell when a guy rope parted as a five-ton load of lumber was being raised from the ground.

The boom was above the third floor. Ahearn, Caruso and other workmen were at work beneath it. It hovered perilously for several seconds before falling and those few seconds saved the lives of Ahearn's companions.

Although an eye-witness of the accident, Mrs. Ahearn did not at first appreciate its seriousness and when she did learn it she fainted. The Ahearns live at No. 141 Worcester street, South End. Ahearn was 52 years old.

city and a bodyguard has been provided for Ambassador Herrick. Communist centres are being searched by the police for the ringleaders in the bomb plot against the diplomat's life.

The Communist newspaper Humanite boldly stated that it was "dissatisfied with the effect of the bomb" and printed a summons to a monster mass meeting Friday, to be followed by another on Sunday.

These meetings said the newspapers, will demand a reprieve for "the two innocent martyrs in America, who are victims of an infamous capitalistic conspiracy."

Police Prefect Leullier, who is personally investigating the crime, told the International News Service he had found that the bomb was mailed at the Rue Pontoise post office station, in the Latin quarter. One theory is that the sender may have posed as one of the great numbers of students of all nationalities who live in the Latin quarter.

STILL GETS THREATS.

Mr. Herrick told the police prefect he was still receiving threatening letters.

Marcel Cachin, Communist member of the Chamber of Deputies, said he was in no way responsible for the attack upon Ambassador Herrick.

"It is true," said M. Cachin, "that I wrote some articles in which I said that the American embassy had received numerous protests, which had remained unanswered and that I said that the time had come to act. I was merely thinking of the mass meeting of protest when I wrote that. The mass meeting on Friday is perfectly legal."

Mr. Herrick went about his duties as usual today. He received many congratulations from friend in France and America upon his escape.

The bomb had been sent by registered mail, addressed personally to the Ambassador. The package was delivered at the Embassy, but an attache, believing it was a gift, carried it to Mr. Herrick's residence. It was turned over to Mr. Herrick's butler, who began to open it.

As soon as the cords had been removed from the box a spring was released and the servant heard a buzzing sound, which aroused his suspicions. He threw the box through a doorway and turned to run. It exploded almost instantly and a small fragment of metal inflicted a flesh wound.

The explosion wrecked part of the house and brought Mr. Herrick and several servants rushing to the scene.

Police Trace Threats Sent Ambassador Child

By International News Service.

Rome, Oct. 20.—The police were engaged today in attempting to trace the origin of threatening letters which have been sent to Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador. They were also seeking the source which inspired hostile Communist demonstrations against the ebbassy.

Extra guards have been placed about the embassy and the police have offered a bodyguard to the American diplomat.

News of an attack against the life of Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador at Paris, has increased the anxiety here. Italian Communists are demanding the release of two Italians who were convicted of murder at Braintree, Mass.—Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. The erroneous report has been current here that the men have already been executed.

Defence Committee to Ignore Bomb Plots

The bomb outrage perpetrated in Paris in connection with the demonstrations there in favor of the release of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, local Italians who have been sentenced to death for first degree murder, will pass unnoticed by the members of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defence Committee, an organization with offices at No. 256 Hanover street, which has been working for months to help the men.

This announcement was made today by a reporter for the Boston American, who asked if the committee would take any official cognizance of the outrages.

It was said that the committee's work of raising funds and conducting agitation in support of Sacco and Vanzetti would continue as though the Paris outburst had never occurred.

Herrick Reported on Protests, Ignored Threats

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The State Department last week received a routine report from Ambassador Herrick stating that protests had been filed with him against the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti, but he did not report the knowledge of any plot, or the receipt of any threats.

RUSSIAN ASTRONOMER TO TEACH IN CHICAGO

New York, Oct. 20.—Dr. Otto Struve, Russian astronomer, who came out of Russia with the Wrangel army last November and who had to chop wood in the forests of the Sultan of Turkey for a living, has arrived in this country to join the staff of the University of Chicago, it was announced today by the American Central Committee for Russian Relief.

Herrick to Travel in Closed Car to Foil Attack by Reds

Paris, Oct. 20.—(By Associated Press) — Ambassador Herrick has decided to rest several days at his place in the country. Although not ill, Mr. Herrick thought it best to abstain from official duties for a day or two to remove possibility of reaction from his nervous shock. Mr. Herrick, at the request of his staff, has decided not to use his open automobile for a week or ten days.

He has promised to ride only in a closed car. His machine is the same style as the horse-drawn Victoria so prevalent in Paris. It's use would expose the ambassador to any further possible attempt which might be made on his life.

Leaders Believe There Will Be No Strike Unless Something Unexpected Occurs representatives to deal with the company with regard to rules and working conditions.

In a statement read to the board by C. W. Heiserman, attorney for the road, it was asserted that the Pennsylvania had violated no order of the board. The statement was prepared by Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania, and approved by the board of directors.

Conferences are being held here by the so-called "Standard Unions" to formulate a joint policy on which they will either go along, if the strike is called, or break with the brotherhoods and stick by the roads.

The Western Railroad Managers' Association will meet here tomorrow to formulate strike plans.

Two roads have decided to operate passenger, rail and milk trains first, in event of a strike, and then extend freight service as rapidly as crews can be recruited.

The American Railroad Men's Association, a fraternal order embracing 10,000 yard masters, yard conductors and switchmen, has appealed to railroad workers to call off the threatened strike and declares the wage cut before "public opinion overwhelms you."

Commission to Order Freight Rates Reduced

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The Interstate Commerce Commission will order a material reduction in freight rates within the next few days, well-informed observers believed today. They promise their relief on these grounds:

1—President Harding and at least two members of his Cabinet—Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace—are in favor rate reductions. The President has expressed the opinion that conditions seem to call for reductions in the rates on "heavy loading commodities."

2—Secretary Hoover is of the opinion that there has been no reduction in railroad rates to correspond with reductions in commodity prices paid to farmers and manufacturers.

3—Secretary Wallace has told the Interstate Commerce Commission that the farmers must have a reduction in freight rates or the agricultural industry would go bankrupt.

4—The commission has concluded hearings on complaints asking for reduction in freight rates on grain and grain products and on hardwood and other forest products. The granting of reduced rates in these cases, it is believed would be the entering wedge in a general reduction of freight rates.

The grain inquiry, hearing of the commission, which extended over three weeks, covered the Western and Mountain-Pacific groups of railroads, and the decision in the case is believed to be imminent. The main contention in this case, which was brought on the complaint of the Kansas Railroad Commission, is that grain is paying more in freight rates than any other comparable commodity.

Clifford Thorne, speaking for organizations of farmers, told the commission that "the railroads say that no reduction in rates can be made without a reduction in wages and that the general economic situation is not an issue to be decided by this tribunal.

"Therefore," said Thorne, "I would like to submit a proposition and ask a question, which may possibly point to a solution. Labor would probably oppose a reduction in wages for the benefit of the corporations, but I would like to submit a proposition to labor. If assured that the entire wage decrease would accrue to the farmer, what would be labor's attitude? And if labor would consent to a reduction in wages, would the railroads consent to a reduction in the rates on grain and hay? Five per cent. decrease in wages on the Western roads would be approximately equivalent to a 25 per cent. reduction in the rates on grain and hay."

Thorne further pointed out if his proposition should be proved acceptable he thought it could be enlarged to include "livestock over the nation, thereby involving the bread and meat of our people."

A 7½ per cent. reduction in wages, he claimed, would permit a 25 per cent. reduction in the rates on these basic food commodities.

Shortly after his return to the White House, President Harding summoned C. C. Mcford, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to the White House to make a report on the situation. Guy D. Goff, Acting Attorney-General, in the absence of Attorney-General Daugherty, was summoned and the three spent half an hour together.

34,000 Pennsylvania Men Won't Join Strike

By International News Service.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—Thirty-four thousand maintenance of way employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad today telegraphed the offices here their intention to remain at work if the threatened railway strike materializes. The telegram was received from Wilmington, Del., where officers of the Pennsylvania division of the United Brotherhood Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers held a meeting to discuss the strike.

LYNN WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN POND

Mrs. Alfred T. Maloney Ends Life After Prolonged Siege of Illness

The body of Mrs. Alfred T. Maloney of No. 54 Coburn street, Lynn, was found floating in Flax Pond, Lynn, early today, by a searching party, which had been seeking her for fourteen hours.

Medical Examiner N. P. Breed of Lynn examined the body and returned a verdict of suicide in a fit of melancholia, the result of prolonged illness.

Mrs. Maloney left the Coburn street house yesterday afternoon, and, when her husband, a barber, returned for supper shortly afterwards, he became alarmed and notified the police, as she had been acting strangely of late.

She had been seen by neighbors walking in the direction of the North Shore Ice Company's plant on Maple street, garbed in a house dress over which she had drawn a sweater.

The body was discovered off the foot of Maple street by William Cahoon, a member of the searching party of No. 4 Houghton street, and turned over to the medical examiner.

Mrs. Maloney was fifty-three years old.

PROVIDENCE BOY KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Providence, Oct. 20.—John Pulsifer, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Pulsifer, No. 95 Updike street, was instantly killed when struck and knocked down by an automobile owned and operated by Alexander B. Fritz, thirty-eight years old, of No. 207 Gano street.

The boy was playing with some other lads on a sand pile and when called by Mrs. Olga Myers they all started across the street, running from behind a coal truck. Fritz said he did not see the boy until it was too late to avoid striking him.

Murphy campaign headquarters were today opened in the Studio Building, No. 110 Tremont street, with Attorney Charles H. Morris in charge.

GET $1,500,000 IN LIQUOR ON FALSE PERMITS

Washington, Oct. 20.—One and one-half million dollars' worth of liquor has been withdrawn from bonded warehouses in Pennsylvania on fraudulent permits within recent months, it was disclosed today by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

These facts were revealed, Haynes said, as the result of his investigation into liquor sales conditions in Pennsylvania. Haynes said the present permit system is "irregular."

ABDUCTION TALE FALSE, POLICE DECLARE

Young Wife Ran Away With Man to Fitchburg, They Say After Probe

The pitiful tale of abduction, outrage and maltreatment told by Mrs. Mary Kevo to the police of Fitchburg is false, according to the police of the City Hall station, who have been investigating it since the woman's return from Fitchburg last night.

Even the name of Kevo is an assumed one, declared Captain P. C. Kneeland, who has been making the probe today. So also is the address, No. 32 Hanover street, given by the woman.

She is, in reality, says Captain Kneeland, Mrs. Katherine Giordani, seventeen years old, of No. 220 Lake street, Arlington, and instead of having been kidnaped by a gang of men in an automobile at Scollay square and taken to Fitchburg, she ran away with a man, whose name the police are withholding.

MAY SHOE BABY'S GODFATHER.

This man, she alleged to Captain Kneeland, is a personal friend of her husband and the godfather of her five-month-old baby.

Here is the story as she told it to Captain Kneeland today, after she had been questioned for more than three hours. Kneeland was suspicious of the first tale she told to the Fitchburgh officers and after holding her in the Charlon Street House all night had her taken to the City Hall station this morning for questioning.

On September 29, the girl told the police, she accompanied her husband to Revere, intending to stay with friends there for several days. "The Man" was there and her husband sent her out walking with him.

He led her to a secluded spot and there began threatening her. When she refused to yield to his demands, she declares, he lost his temper and began throwing rocks at her.

This so terrified her, she told Captain Kneeland, that she gave way and then spent the rest of the afternoon in a room at Revere.

She returned to her friends' home that evening, but the following day "The Man" came for her, and together they went by train to Fitchburg. There, she says, he took her to a room which they never left until he went out yesterday.

HUSBAND WILL FORGIVE.

She declares that she was in a constant state of terror, fearing that "The Man" would use the great revolver with which he threatened her from time to time.

After more than two weeks' incarceration in the room, his money began to run low and yesterday morning he left her to seek work.

Before going, however, she declares that he again rehearsed the story of having been kidnaped in Scollay square, which he had taught her the first day of their elopement.

This he impressed upon her that she was to tell the police if by any chance she fell into their hands.

As soon as she was alone, she told Captain Kneeland, she put on the few clothes he had left and went out into the street. When taken into custody by the Fitchburg police she became frightened and told the story she had rehearsed so often.

After taking down her statement and a description of the man who lured her away, Captain Kneeland turned her over to an agent of the State Department of Charities and then communicated with her husband.

According to the captain, the husband is willing to take her back home and forgive her, provided she is willing to promise never to have anything more to do with the man she says is the godfather of her baby.

CORSET IS 'RELIC OF BARBARISM'

Miss Sarah H. Stites, Dean of Simmons College, Miss Sophronia Dial, head of the Department of Physical Training, and Mrs. LeFarge, Instructor in Costume Design, are all agreed that simplicity in dress is essential to a business woman's success.

High heels, short sleeves, thin waists and fluffy, distracting fripperies should be tabooed by the woman who would present a business-like appearance, they say.

"This does not mean that the business woman need sacrifice her charm," says Dean Stites. "It is first of all her duty to make herself attractive to her associates. She should study her type and strive for an effect of elegant simplicity by the method best suited to her individuality.

"Personally, I prefer the simple one-piece dresses to the strictly tailored clothes for reasons of variety and economy.

TAILORED DRESS EXPENSIVE.

"Well-made tailored clothing is very expensive. The one-piece frock is better suited to the uncorseted figure, which insures greater comfort and efficiency to the worker.

"I consider the corset a relic of barbarism, but nevertheless essential to the tailored outfit."

Miss Dial, on the other hand, would recommend a strictly tailored costume for all business women.

"I choose my costume with a view to its suitability to any occasion which may arise. It must appear fresh for late appointments at the end of a long business day."

SAYS ONE-PIECE FROCK—

"My main objection to the one-piece frock for business wear is that it is not sanitary. A freshly laundered blouse each morning is greatly preferable," she declared.

Meeting the objection that the tailored effect is unbecoming to many women, Miss Dial suggests a demonstration to prove the contrary.

"Long and flowing sleeve clothing are always festful, and it is the duty of the business woman to present as restful an effect as possible," she states.

Mrs. LeFarge pleads for a return to a simple coiffure. "One's clothing as well as one's head-dress should suggest the human figure, not disfigure it," she declares.

For variety in the one-piece costume, she favors adjustable high and low collars, adjustable waist-lines and sleeves.

BROCKTON MAN HELD ON LOTTERY CHARGE

Immediately after signing for a package, alleged to contain hundreds of lottery tickets, charged with violations of No. 47 Highland street, Brockton, was taken into custody by Deputy U. S. Marshal Joseph Quinn, who brought him to the Federal building where he was bailed in $1,100 for his appearance before U. S. Commissioner Hayes today.

Withington received the package while seated in his automobile. According to the warrant it was transported from Schenectady, N. Y., to Brockton. The alleged lottery tickets according to the complaint, were chances on the Canadian National Lottery.

LAWRENCE DOG THAT BIT 14 HAD RABIES

State Board of Health Gives Confirmation of Fears After Examination

Lawrence, Oct. 20. — Consternation was caused here today when the State Board of Health officially reported that the dog which bit 14 people here last Tuesday, was afflicted with rabies.

The State Board had been asked by the local health authorities to make an examination of the animal's body.

Serum has been sent for to treat the 14 victims who fear hydrophobia.

Four of the victims are children. No men were bitten by the animal, which began its rabid career in South Lawrence early in the morning and bit pedestrians for nearly six hours before a bullet from the gun of Patrolman Patrick Casey ended his career on Spruce street.

The most seriously injured victims were Mrs. Felix Zaremba and her two-year-old son, Emile, who are confined to their home, No. 241 Oak street. The child's face was bitten almost to a pulp on the right side before the mother could summon aid.

In her frantic efforts to save the child she allowed her right arm to be chewed horribly by the maddened animal. The mother was leading the child by the hand when the dog leaped upon it. The other victims are all under physicians' care and their cases are being closely watched by the local health authorities.

The dog is the same which ran amuck in South Lawrence two weeks ago, it is said.

TUFTS FIGHTS DISBARMENT AT HEARING

Makes Spirited Plea at 3-Hour Session of Grievance Committee

In a gruelling four-hour session before the grievance committee of the Middlesex Bar Association, Nathan A. Tufts, recently removed District Attorney of the Northern District, made a gallant fight to preserve his right to practice law.

Tufts, with his attorney, Melvin M. Johnson, appeared before the committee, and was given a hearing on the question as to whether or not disbarment proceedings should be instituted against him.

The meeting took place in the office at No. 40 Court street of Gilbert A. A. Pevey, chairman of the committee, with all five members present.

PRINCIPALS SILENT.

These included Chairman Pevey, Augustin L. Daly, ex-mayor of Cambridge; Prescott Keyes of Concord; Fred M. Weir of Lowell, a former district attorney of Middlesex County; and Judge Henry Mulligan of Natick.

At the close of the session, Tufts, Johnson and Miss Lucy M. Keaney, the former district attorney's stenographer, who was called at his trial, left hurriedly, refusing to make any statement.

The members of the grievance committee were equally reticent. Chairman Pevey going to the extent only of saying that no decision had at the beginning of their deliberations. He said that further conference would be held, with the possibility that other witnesses would be called.

Chairman Pevey said that Miss Keaney was brought to the meeting by Tufts and Johnson, and that she was the only stenographer present. Asked if the committee would have the privilege of obtaining a copy of her transcript of what took place, he replied:

"Yes, if we want it."

TUFTS APPEARS CONFIDENT.

Prompt at 4 o'clock the members of the grievance committee began to arrive at Chairman Pevey's office, and a short time later Melvin M. Johnson put in his appearance. To questions of newspaper men he replied that he did not know whether or not Tufts would attend. Fletcher Ranney, his associate in the defence of the district attorney during the trial, would not be present, Johnson stated.

Sometime later, Tufts, with an unlighted cigar at an assertive angle in his mouth, appeared, and hurried into Pevey's office, followed by the swarm of newspapermen. He appeared in godo health and spirits, and seemed confident.

The former District Attorney was followed by Miss Keaney, who was likewise in good spirits. Johnson arrived when Endicott Peabody Saltonstall was appointed as Tufts' successor.

With Pevey's stenographer for a time standing guard over the outer door, the committee members and the others retired to an inner office, where the proceedings were conducted.

Tufts was given an opportunity to be heard, and took advantage of it to enthusiastically that at times his raised voice or that of his counsel could be heard in the hall.

At 5 o'clock the guardian of the door went home, locking it carefully behind her, and the session ended, then continued for three more hours.

At the conclusion of the conference, Chairman Pevey said that the committee would make its report to the Bar association when the investigation was finished. At that time he said a public statement would be made in all probability.

PROVIDENCE MAN HELD ON REVOLVER CHARGE

Providence, Oct. 20.—Thomas J. Bowen, forty-nine years old, of No. 50 Mesting street, was arrested this afternoon charging a dangerous weapon following a quarrel during which John N. St John, of No. 16 Freeborn avenue, East Providence, was shot through the right arm.

The police say that Bowen, who is employed as a messenger by the Merchants' National Bank, went into a market at No. 10 Thomas street, where St. John is employed, and entered into an argument with him. Both fell to the floor after grappling with one another and Bowen, it is alleged, pulled a revolver and fired one shot which hit St. John in the right arm.

GREEKS REPULSE TURKS AND TAKE OFFENSIVE

Athens, Oct. 20.—Turkish Nationalist forces have been defeated in a sharp battle along the southern end of the battle front in Asia Minor, says an official statement issued here. The fight began on Monday and lasted two days, the enemy hurling savage attacks against the Greek positions over a wide front. The Greeks are said to have pursued the Nationalists toward the east and southeast.

BEAUTY ACCUSED IN $1,000,000 SUIT OF WIFE

Mrs. Woodhouse Claims Husband's Father Encouraged Son's Attention to Divorcee

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 20.—Amazing charges, involving a runaway husband, a "Reno widow," parental interference, soul mating and snobbery, are contained in the $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Dorrit van Deusen Stevens Woodhouse against Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, president of the Merchants' National Bank.

She charges that they even went the length of encouraging his intimacy with a "Reno widow," who was her rival for his affections.

2—That when she encountered Woodhouse and his "soul mate" on the street in Washington they fled; that she pursued them; that her husband won the foot race and entered Mrs. McClelland's apartment; that Mrs. McClelland entered later, and calmly shut the door in the face of the angry wife.

3—That Lorenzo E. Woodhouse encouraged the alleged intimacy between his son, already a husband, and Mrs. McClelland.

4—That the parents "backed" Mrs. McClelland against their son's wife and hoped he would divorce his wife and marry the "Reno widow."

5—That the snobbery of her "inlaws" and her own lack of money was the cause of the drive made against her by her husband and his people.

FATHER HAS MILLIONS.

Lorenzo E. Woodhouse is many times a millionaire, a banker of this city and New York, the heir of the late Lorenzo G. Woodhouse, and a financial and social dictator in Vermont.

Charles Douglas Woodhouse, the son, is a decidedly popular figure in Burlington society. His friendship with Mrs. McClelland is said to have gone the length of giving her an engagement ring.

Mrs. McClelland is a Washington belle, and was once reported engaged to marry G. Vail Converse, millionaire yachtsman and grandson of the late Theodore Vail, head of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and ex-Senator from Vermont.

It was in the Spring of 1920 that the intelligence came to the young Woodhouse on the streets of Washington with the gay divorcee.

The four face to face in the trio took part led them to a fashionable home where Woodhouse hastened and took refuge behind a locked door.

While Mrs. Woodhouse was clamoring at the door for entrance to see her husband, the McClelland woman arrived breathlessly on the scene and demanded to know what Mrs. Woodhouse wanted. The wife told Mrs. McClelland that her husband was the man with whom she had been walking and she wanted to see him.

that he was in the house and she wanted to see him.

SLAMMED DOOR IN FACE.

Whereupon, it is said that Mrs. McClelland rang the bell. A maid opened the door and Mrs. McClelland entered. She, too, ordered the maid, upon orders, shut the door in the face of Mrs. Woodhouse, it is charged. At the time Mrs. Woodhouse did not know who the woman was with whom she had found her husband, but inquiry later brought out the fact, it is alleged, that it was Mrs. McClelland, and it is said to have obtained a divorce from her former husband at Reno, Nev.

It was also learned that on May 23, last, Woodhouse filed a petition for a divorce in the Second Judicial District Court of Nevada, at Reno, charging Mrs. Woodhouse with desertion and intolerable severity.

WIFE IN WESTFIELD.

Mrs. Woodhouse filed answer to the petition in Reno and set up a counter suit for separate maintenance on the grounds of desertion, neglect, refusal to support, and intolerable severity. In her answer, Mrs. Woodhouse featured the alleged intimacy between Woodhouse and Mrs. McClelland and charged that Woodhouse had not furnished her with a home since the day they were married; that his support had been meagre and that since her separation from him he had not contributed at all to her support.

Both cases are still pending in the Reno court, and are expected to come up for trial shortly.

It was about five years ago that Woodhouse and his young wife first met. The meeting occurred at a wedding in Burlington. It was a case of love at first sight, according to their friends, and a rapid fire courtship followed.

Young Woodhouse then joined the Signal Corps and was sent to New Jersey. Miss Stevens followed and on September 29, 1918, they were quietly wedded in St. Thomas' Church, New York city, by the Rev. Floyd R. Lesch.

It is charged by Mrs. Woodhouse that the wealthy parents of Woodhouse have fomented the friendship between Woodhouse and Mrs. McClelland and have done all in their power to bring about a separation between Woodhouse and his wife and obtain a divorce. It is also charged that they wanted him to obtain his divorce in some distant State in order that she would not be able to go there and defend herself.

Curley Is a "Sticker" and Also a Politician

Harmony Also Finds Candidate for Mayorality Is a Politician; Headquarters a Bee Hive of Activity.

By HENRY HARMONY

James M. Curley is a sticker.

He is also a politician.

Those were the first two impressions I got of him as I wedged my way into the sanctum of the rooms at his headquarters and jammed between a stout lady who wanted a civil service appointment and two gentlemen who were trying to talk at once.

The room was packed. I should not be surprised if, when Curley is going at full speed, that is the most densely populated spot on earth. The atmosphere was thick, though the window was open, but Curley surged through the crush with a word for every fresh arrival.

ADMIRATION SOCIETY.

And, of course, all of us called the former mayor by his first name, told him our innermost secrets, when we got a chance to whisper into his receptive ear, and gazed admiringly at him as he talked to some one else.

It was a great little admiration society, that daily gathering in the Curley reception room.

I don't know how long I was there, but not for an instant during the entire time did Curley get a chance to do more than shake my hand cordially, tell me to "make myself at home" and cast an occasional smile in my direction.

Hour after hour the line moved steadily forward through the room, and not once was Curley at fault. Each man or woman was welcomed with the appropriate word, a question or two, familiarity with his or her family affairs, hopes, desires, ambition. It really was a remarkable exhibition of skill and memory.

MAGNETISM AND CHARM.

Of course all Bostonians know "Jim" Curley. His personality, his smiling eyes behind the heavily rimmed glasses, his resonant baritone voice, now melodious, smooth, now aggressive, harsh, menacing.

That voice of his is the characteristic that will linger longest with me. I have rarely encountered such vocal magnetism and charm.

And it breathes the self-confidence that, to me at least, is the salient feature of Jim Curley's mental and spiritual makeup.

He is perfectly sure that he is going to win this latest race of his for the mayoralty, and has any number of figures and facts to pour out upon those who are doubtful or fearful.

CLEAR AND COLDER TO FOLLOW TODAY'S RAIN

CAR HITS POLE IN HAMILTON; DRIVER DEAD

Chauffeur for Mrs. Richard D. Sears Fatally Injured as Auto Is Wrecked

Hamilton, Oct. 20.—Pinned under the wreckage of a huge touring car that crashed into a telephone pole and overturned while he was driving on a road at the edge of town, Leo Gorman, thirty-year-old war veteran and prominent as an athlete on American Legion teams, sustained injuries that resulted in his death at Ipswich Memorial Hospital early today.

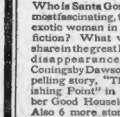

Gorman had been driving the car as chauffeur for Mrs. Richard D. Sears, a Hamilton society woman. In some manner, which is not clear, he lost control of the machine while traveling at a fairly high rate of speed. The car swung across the road and struck a telephone pole, which was snapped off by the impact.

The car then shot down a low embankment and overturned. It was completely wrecked, and Gorman was caught beneath.

Passing motorists helped extricate him from the tangled mass of twisted iron and splintered wood. At the hospital an examination disclosed three broken ribs and a concussion of the brain. Death came in a few hours.

Gorman was the son of Mrs. Frances Gorman, of Hone street, South Hamilton. He is survived by his mother and three sisters.

SHUT UP OR SUE IS DEMAND BY WALSKA

Willing to Let Court Decide What Millionaire Husband Must Pay

By International News Service.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Dudley Field Malone, attorney for Ganna Walska, the grand opera songbird, who refuses $16,000 a year to get out of the life of her $70,000,000 husband, Alexander Smith Cochran, today challenged Samuel Untermeyer, Cochran's counsel, to "shut up or file suit."

In a "communique" issued from his hotel here, Malone replies to the latest "war statement" of Untermeyer in New York that Cochran politely declines Malone's "auction bid" of $500,000 in behalf of his client.

Malone declined to ever "trade any statement that Mrs. Cochran would divorce Mr. Cochran for $500,000 settlement or any other settlement, financial or otherwise."

When will Walska get a divorce?

"If, and when, Mrs. Cochran decides to apply for a divorce, she will apply to the courts and not to Mr. Cochran or to Untermeyer," said Malone.

"If Cochran, as Untermeyer says, knows that he can get rid of his wife, why has Cochran been so anxious that Mrs. Cochran should get rid of him?

"Cochran is worth only about $70,000,000 and Mrs. Cochran and her attorney will be very content to have the court decide whether $16,000 a year is sufficient allowance for the wife of a man worth $70,000,000.

"For three weeks in Paris I refrained from making any public statements about the unusual generosity of Mr. Cochran towards his wife, but when I found that Untermeyer had been slandering my client to newspaper men and in newspaper offices I decided to nail his lies.

"Mr. Untermeyer has never been a shrinking violet so far as publicity is concerned, and his envy now springs purely from the fact that the truth of Mrs. Cochran's situation has pushed him and Mr. Cochran out of the centre of the stage.

"If Mr. Untermeyer believes that Mr. Cochran has any ground for divorce against Mrs. Cochran, let Mr. Untermeyer stop talking and file suit. It is now time to put up or shut up."

DRAMATIC SCENE AS SLAYER OF PRIEST IS TRIED

Son-in-Law of Stephenson Is Paraded Before Jury Without a Word Being Spoken

By Associated Press.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 20.—Taking of testimony was expected to be completed today in the trial of the Rev. Edwin R. Stephenson, charged with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of Rev. James E. Coyle, Catholic priest.

The fourth day of the trial found another great crowd packed about the county building.

The session yesterday was brought to a dramatic close by the appearance before the jury of Piedro Gussman, who as a communicant of Father Coyle's church was married to Stephenson's daughter by the priest.

Stephenson had concluded his narrative of events which led up to the shooting when he was interrupted by Judge Hugo D. Black, chief of counsel for the defense.

"Mr. Sheriff, call Piedro Gussman."

GUSSMAN SILENT.

Gussman was called. "Walk before the jury," Judge Black commanded Gussman without show of emotion, stood before the twelve men in whose hands rests the fate of his father-in-law.

"That will do," said Judge Black. "Bring him closer," broke in a juror on the back row.

The sheriff instructed Gussman to return. He walked within a few feet of the jury box. Not another word was spoken. He stood for a moment, turned on his heel and left the room. It was the first time in the history of Alabama criminal procedure, legal observers said, that a witness had actually been called before a jury without speaking a word.

TELLS OF SHOOTING.

The minister proceeding with his statement said he went to the rectory in search of his daughter, not knowing that she had been married. In conversation with the priest he learned that his daughter had been married by Father Coyle to Gussman, and he then told the priest "you have treated me as dirty as a dog in marrying my daughter in secret."

Mrs. Gussman in a preliminary hearing said her husband was a native of Porto Rico.

The witness said the priest grabbed a and struck him. "I shot him then," said the minister.

Fresh From Paris

Latest Word From Marie Suzanne

THE season for sports clothes is always just beginning—it is merely a matter of geography. Paris, with this in mind, designs two costumes that consider both the sportswoman's appearance and her comfort. Blue kasha, for example, solves this problem exceedingly well by scalloping its overblouse and fastening it easily over one hip, while the skirt, similarly scalloped, opens down the front over a grey kasha underslip. Ends of squirrel trim the round-necked bodice and the skirt, with a tiny knot of it at the front of the blouse.

THAT peculiarly red red, which oddly enough is holding its own among the purple reds, stripes the overblouse of a three-piece jersey costume. Moreover, red red buttons crowd one another down its front opening, and the same gay manner of embroidery adorns its pockets. The blouse and skirt are of plain white jersey, the latter accordion-pleated.

COOLIDGE SEES BUSINESS TURN FOR BETTER

Urges New Englanders to Put Spirit of Optimism Into Their Affairs

A personal message from Vice-President Calvin Coolidge addressed to the members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and declaring that there is clearly apparent a turn of the tide in the business and industrial life of the nation was read by President Everett R. Morse of the Chamber of Commerce at the opening assembly luncheon of the Fall season held at the Copley Plaza today.

Vice-President Coolidge's statement urges the business men of New England to inject a spirit of "business optimism" into the conduct of their affairs.

Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company, was guest of honor and speaker at the luncheon on the subject, "Where Do We Go From Here?"

Coolidge's statement reads as follows:

"The business and industrial life of the nation has been subjected to a trying period of liquidation during the past year. This has been due, in part, to an inevitable economic reaction from the war period conditions. It is to the credit of our business leaders that they have met the strain with patience, courage and success.

"Today there is a definite turning of the tide in the business and industrial activities of the country. This upward swing of the business pendulum is clearly defined to those who can read the economic signs of the times. And it calls for a spirit of optimism, and attitude of self-reliant, forward-looking confidence on the part of the business men of the country.

"To no section of the country is this of more importance than to New England. It is at once the duty and the opportunity of the business men of New England to crystallize this spirit of business optimism into the conduct of their affairs to the end that the entire economic life of the nation may be speedily returned to its rightful condition of prosperity."

Dish Hurling Wives Win Divorces for Two Husbands

Worcester, Oct. 20.—Amazon tendencies on the part of wives won divorces for two marriage disillusioned husbands before Judge Fosdick.

Howard C. Dewey, a traveling salesman, said that he won out over a rival for his wife's hand because he had a better position. But friend wife proved a veritable strong woman, he testified, and was wont to hurl at him any article of furniture that came handy, so he was granted his divorce.

Frances Marie Veronneau was an expert in hurling also, so Arthur Veronneau of Gardner told the court. Incidentally, he objected to being the target. He, too, was given a divorce.

HAMON WIDOW BANS HANDSOME HUSBANDS

Rejects Marriage Proposal of Sacramento Gold Mine Owner and Broker

By Universal Service.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Handsome men make splendid dinner companions and fine dancing partners, but the homely man is the safest husband.

Such was the opinion expressed here by Mrs. Georgia Hamon, widow of Jake Hamon, Oklahoma millionaire, when she gave her reasons for not marrying F. Albert Morrison, Sacramento broker and mine owner.

"He proposed to me yesterday," Mrs. Hamon admitted as she waited to keep a luncheon engagement with Mr. Morrison at the Congress Hotel.

"But I cannot marry him. He's too good looking. He's a dear, but too much of a Belvidere to suit me.

"I had experience with one handsome man, you know," she continued, referring to her former husband whose love affair with Clara Smith Hamon resulted in his death less than a year ago.

"I'll never marry another. When I find a man I can care for, who is homely enough to be a safe bet, I will marry him perhaps, but not Mr. Morrison."

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every members of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

Try This on Your Hair 15 Days

Then let your mirror prove the results—Write today for the trial.

Now, that dermatologists and skin specialists are agreed that the beginning of baldness is the gradual thinning out of the hair and that that is due to a microbe in the scalp, it was not difficult for science to overcome it. So it is now possible to stop thinning out of the hair, falling hair, baldness, gray hair, bald patches, itchy, scaly dandruff and other such afflictions of the hair and scalp. The new method strengthens the hair roots and follicles, makes the scalp healthy and sanitary and puts life, glow and lustre into the old and growing hair. Tests show it will do this in 15 days in your own home—perhaps less in your case. Send your address today for the 15 days' home trial to the

ELSIE REACHES HALIFAX, READY FOR RACE

Arrival of Gloucester Schooner Marred by Objection to Crew Members

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 20.—The Gloucester schooner Elsie, under full spread of canvas, sailed into Halifax harbor to defend American supremacy of the North Atlantic fishing fleets against the Canadian schooner Bluenose Saturday.

The Elsie left Gloucester Monday, but was delayed by adverse winds. Her arrival was marred by criticism of the qualifications of some of her crew.

Captain Marty Welch tied up his cup defender at the same wharf he occupied last year when he came here with the Esperanto and won the trophy.

Canadian followers of the international fishermen's race were aroused over a report that no less than five members of the crew of the Elsie, are not bona fide fishermen.

The deed of gift states that only active fishermen shall comprise the crews of the schooners competing for the international trophy.

A rumor, not generally credited, around Halifax was to the effect that Captain Welch had voiced objections to the Bluenose as a contender and that he would sail the Elsie only under protest, holding that the Bluenose was built and fostered on much the same lines as the Boston schooner Mayflower, which was barred from the race.

Men who know ships and sailing and who have compared the two schooners agree that the American boat has the best chances. She is sharper than the Bluenose and she does not drag her stern, as does the Canadian challenger. The Elsie's rigging sets firmer, and is more workable.

EXEMPTION FOR AGRICULTURE PRODUCTS

Smoot Plans Sales Tax Amendment as More Senators Join Fight for Bill

By International News Service

Washington, Oct. 20.—Exemption of all agricultural products as an amendment to his manufacturers' sales tax substitute for the pending tax bill was proposed today by Senator Reed Smoot, Republican, of Utah.

Senators Johnson, Republican, of California; Gooding, Republican, of Idaho, and Kendrick, Democrat, of Wyoming, are the latest to join the growing group in the Senate which has promised to vote for the Smoot sales tax.

This group includes the so-called "manufacturers' bloc" of Eastern Senators, embracing nearly all of those from the New England States and Senators Calder and Wadsworth of New York and Edge of New Jersey.

Several members of the "agricultural bloc" of Western and Southern Senators have endorsed the Smoot plan and the exemption of agricultural products, including hay and corn used for fodder, is expected to cause others to support it.

Senator Smoot is greatly encouraged by the steadily increasing number of pledges of support he is receiving. While he realizes that the sales tax does not yet command a majority vote in the Senate, he said he felt more encouraged by the existing tax situation than any time since he began his fight for the elimination of the pending bill.

FATHER FOUND TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY VERY SICK

Was Constipated, Thin, No Appetite, Had Swollen Lips, Stomach Pains

A hardy woodsman and enthusiastic fisherman, of Maine, has a very interesting record to report. He writes: "As a boy, thirty-seven years ago, I began to take Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. Once after six months hauling logs, I came out of the woods and found my two-year-old boy very sick. He was thin, had no appetite, had swollen lips, pains in stomach, was suffering from constipation, for months.

"I had not been in the house an hour when an elderly lady—a good neighbor—came in and told my wife to get a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir, saying she had seen numbers of similar cases which it had relieved.

"My boy was given a half dozen doses of Dr. True's Elixir when he passed a lot of worms, and right away began to show improvement; he began soon to eat with a relish, play around and look healthy. He did not have to take a full bottle, and in later years, whenever he got off his feed, a few doses would straighten him out quick.

"When I get constipated, a couple of teaspoons of Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, fix me O. K.

"My son is grown up now and has a family of six children, and he has practically raised his family on Dr. True's Elixir. The children go out and get hold of something not good for them. It's hard to watch all the children, and so when they eat something they shouldn't and get sick, Dr. True's Elixir is given and the family is put in good shape again.

"I have read in the papers you have to take a half dozen bottles of some remedies, but you don't have to do this with Dr. True's Elixir. Simply a few doses and then quick relief. The three generations of my family have been kept healthy by using it."

Symptoms of worms: Constipation, offensive breath, swollen upper lip, deranged stomach, occasional pains in the bowels, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Nearly every child and grownup need a laxative some time. The fond parents safeguard the health of their children, as well as their own, by keeping their bowels in condition. In Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, only pure herbs are used. No harmful drugs. Keep the bowels regular by using Dr. True's Elixir. Buy the family size.

The Emmett Piano

New Upright $335 TERMS

THE basic idea in the construction of the Emmett was "to make a fine piano at a low price." Not to make a cheap piano—We recommend these instruments to people who recognize values and who do not mistake cheapness for economy. The price of $335 does not tell the whole value story of the Emmett Piano.

TWO WOUNDED IN BELFAST BATTLE

Young Girl Is One of Victims as Snipers and Military Open Fire

By Associated Press.

Belfast, Oct. 20.—Two persons were wounded during firing which occurred in the Stanhope street area between military and snipers last evening. One of the injured was a young girl.

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 20.—Committees from both the Sinn Fein and British peace envoys conferred today on details of the general issues, which have been brought up in the conference. The peace parley will not convene until tomorrow.

Discovery of a number of Sinn Fein blockhouses scattered throughout Ulster was one of the reasons for the calling of the Ulster volunteers—anti-Sinn Fein forces—to arms, it was reported from Belfast today.

The forts were established near Republican army training fields. One of the largest training camps is outside of Seaforde, in County Down, in the mountain district.

About 500 Sinn Fein youths were being drilled. They were equipped with berries, rifles and machine guns. Most of them were from Dublin and Cork.

KING GEORGE TOO POOR TO REPAIR ROYAL YACHT

London, Oct. 20.—King George has announced that owing to the great need o feconomy, his majesty cannot afford to fit out the Royal yacht Britannia for the yacht race next year. "This is a great disappointment," says the announcement, "as there is no sport he enjoys more."

Play Committee: Samuel A. Epstein of Dorchester.

Publicity Committee: Ruth Muggleboe of East Boston.

KILLS CHILD BY ROPE TIED TO GRINDSTONE

Three-Year-Old Boy Turns Crank Until Girl of Same Age Is Dead

Providence, Oct. 20.—"I don't like you any more!"

Whereupon three-year-old Johnny Bucko told the police he tied a cord around the neck of three-year-old Mary Szpila in the yard opposite her home on Elm stret, Valley Falls, then to the shaft of a grindstone, and turned the handle until little Mary was dead.

John is four months older than Mary was, and in his simple, childish way he loved little apple-cheeked Mary.

Benny, Mary's four-year-old brother, saw her lying in the yard and her hat some distance away. Benny thought his sister was playing some sort of a childish game, and ran home with Mary's hat. The child's body was discovered by John Zajac, in whose yard Mary was murdered.

Mrs. Szpila, the child's mother, collapsed when notified of the tragedy. "I am able at a moment's notice."

MAYOR OF WESTFIELD TAKES JOBLESS ACTION

Westfield, Oct. 20.—In an effort to furnish work for unemployed Mayor George W. Searls recommends City Council that appropriation be made to repaint and shingle buildings on the city farm property. Improvement work will furnish employment for several of the city's unemployed.

Visit to U. S. Expected to Benefit Health of Lloyd George

London, Oct. 20.—Friends of Premier Lloyd George are anxious regarding his health, as recent strains on his physical capacities have left him entirely exhausted and scarcely able to speak, it was learned today.

It was believed that the Premier's trip to Washington to attend the forthcoming conference on disarmament would benefit his condition materially.

BOGUS HERO IS A DESERTER FROM ARMY

Lehr Wore Uniform and Medals on Streets, Must Face Court Martial

Private John Lehr, posing in the streets of Boston as a would-be hero, has been arrested, charged with two desertions from the army and further charged with the wearing of war medals to which he was not entitled.

When arrested, Lehr was clad in olive drab uniform, service hat, air service cord, with the rank of master sergeant at his sleeve, ribbon showing him as an expert pistol shot, Victory Medals with five battle clasps, Mexican Border ribbon and Croix de Guerre.

He never served overseas and is charged, while a member of the 22nd balloon air service, with deserting that service at Lee Hall, Va., April 26, 1920, and was apprehended in Boston December 15, 1920, and sent to Fort Williams, Portland, from which place he escaped February 17, 1921.

He was apprehended in this city, October 17, by the Boston police and turned over to the Intelligence Department of the First Corps Area. He will be tried by the judge advocate next week.

Feels Return of Youthful "Pep" After Gland Pills

So Says Mr. Duvall Who Had Been in Run-down and Weakened Health for 10 Years.

"After being in a weakened and run-down condition for the last ten years, during which I doctored and tried a number of different medicines with scarcely any benefit, today, thanks to Glandex Compound, I feel as full of pep and energy as when I was a boy, and can go out and do as much work as any man on the job," said Mr. James E. Duvall, for 50 years an esteemed resident of Needham, Mass., living at 240 Rosemary St.

"I was so weak that I could scarcely do a day's work without coming home nearly exhausted. My old time ambition had almost left me. My stomach was in bad shape, and I would go to bed so tired out that I could not go to sleep for hours, and I would get up feeling all in and dreading the day's work before me. My nerves were on edge, and I was on the point of giving up all hope of regaining health when I heard of Glandex.

"I had not taken a half a bottle of Glandex when I began to improve. Today I'm always hungry, and everything agrees with me. I have not had a touch of indigestion since the first bottle. I've gotten all over my nervousness, sleep soundly every night, and get up feeling fine. My liver and bowels are in splendid condition, and I have gained wonderfully in weight. Why, I actually feel as strong as I did 15 years ago! I recommend Glandex on every opportunity, and wish that more people knew of this wonderful tonic and what it would do for them."

Amazing Results Everywhere

The reason Glandex brings such amazing results in so many cases is because it helps build up run-down glands—which science now says are the cause of many run-down conditions. Glandex feeds rundown human glands with extracts taken from the glands of vigorous sheep and cattle. Practically on the same principle as re-charging a storage battery. Also contains iron and other well-known health builders.

If weak, pale, thin or generally rundown try this remarkable tonic. Brings results—or your money back. Has helped thousands to regain health and strength. Try a bottle! Sold at good druggists everywhere.

NEW GOVERNMENT SET UP IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Oct. 20.—The Portuguese government has been overturned by the Monarchists and Militarists in a bloodless revolution and today a new ministry was formed by Colonel Manuel Maria Coelho. Troops are in possession of all the strategic centres in Lisbon and the suburbs. The government did not attempt to resist, but resigned without any opposition.

Eat Heartily Without Dread

Eat Anything You Like and Don't Worry—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Relieve Sour Stomach, Belching, Gas and Acid Conditions Due to Indigestion

Simply Chew a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet After Meals—They Taste Good

No matter what you eat or drink, even though it be just a glass of sweet milk, the stomach may rebel and sour almost immediately. In such cases one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets furnish the alkaline effect to offset the acid condition. Quite often the stomach may be overcrowded with partially digested food.

A cold bottle of beverage at such times may add to the difficulty and there is gassiness, a bilious taste, and other distresses due to indigestion. Travelers may save themselves much of the discomfort of wayside eating by having a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with them as they can be had in almost any drug store throughout the U. S. and Canada.

HITCH IN PLANS FOR SEARLES AUTOPSY

Report Medical Examiner Dow May Insist It Be Held In His District

Lawrence, Oct. 20.—Will Dr. George W. Dow, medical examiner of the Lawrence District, interfere in an effort to have the proposed autopsy on the body of the late multi-millionaire Searles performed in this district instead of at the Grove street Morgue in Boston?

Effort on the part of the authorities to disappoint the "curious," who would see the casket of Methuen's late millionaire carried from its tomb, has caused an entire change in plans which may yet be further changed if the Lawrence medical examiner interferes.

Dr. Dow, under whose jurisdiction the autopsy would be performed, has not received any notification as yet to be present at the autopsy. The Lawrence medical examiner's assistant, Dr. Victor A. Reed, who was also the attending physician of the late millionaire, declared he was not in a position to discuss the matter.

District Attorney S. Howard Donnell, who ordered the autopsy several days ago, said he believes that it will be possible to hold it this week. He declared that he had received desired information from the executors of the Searles estate relative to the tomb and the work which will be necessary before the body can be reached.

Asked if the body would be taken away in a machine during the night, District Attorney Donnell refused to state. He was reticent on the matter of how the body would reach Boston or when the trip would be made.

"One thing is certain," he concluded, "I don't intend to hold the autopsy with ten or twenty thousand people looking on."

WAR HERO WEDS IN HOSPITAL ROMANCE

California Girl Becomes Bride of Somerville Veteran She Visited While Wounded

Miss Marion J. Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Schaefer of Visalia, California, became the bride of Sergeant John A. Dickerman, of Somerville, who on April 12, 1918, received forty-five wounds from a high explosive fired from a trench mortar at Apremont, near Toul, France, when a member of Headquarters Company of the 104th Regiment, in St. Catherine's Church, Spring Hill, Somerville.

The ceremony was performed at the rectory of the church by the pastor, the Rev. James J. O'Brien. Miss Isabelle E. Mauch, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to Somerville Post, No. 19, of the American Legion, was bridesmaid, and Lieutenant H. Chester Hobbs of West Somerville, the groom's comrade in the 104th Regiment, who was also wounded in action, was the best man.

The wedding was followed by a reception.

Sergeant and Mrs. Dickerman were attended by the former's parents and the bride's mother, who motored from California to Somerville to attend the wedding. Over 300 guests, including many members of the American Legion, attended.

General and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards were the most noted guests. Other soldier guests included comrades of Sergeant Dickerman.

Sergeant and Mrs. Dickerman will take a honeymoon motor trip through Maine and New Hampshire.

During the war, the bride was employed as a clerk in the Navy Department at Washington. She was then actively interested in social welfare work and was a frequent visitor to the wounded veterans in the Walter Reed Hospital. It was on one of these visits that she first met Sergeant Dickerman and the acquaintance formed ripened into love, with the culmination in the wedding.

Judge Fines Self $10, Hoping It Will Teach Him to Respect Law

Honolulu, Oct. 20.—Judge J. B. Lightfoot was arrested and charged with violation of a traffic ordinance.

He arraigned himself in his own court, entered a plea of guilty, and fined himself $10.

"I hope this may teach you a decent respect for the law," he said to himself as he transferred the $10 from one pocket to another.

HARDING'S CALL ANSWERED BY RESERVISTS

Men Wiped Off Navy Rolls by Recent Order Are Re-enrolling

Thousands of Naval Reservists in New England and vicinity who were wiped off the Navy rolls by the order of September 30 are rallying to the call of President Harding, sent out recently through the medium of a letter to a junior officer of the force at Philadelphia, Pa.

The President's letter, calling upon the patriotism of the men in this service to "stand the gaff" till new legislation can be formulated and enacted, has had a remarkable effect and appears to have turned the tide that seemed to be sweeping this organization of nearly 250,000 men in the United States into a chaos of disorganization.

The President wants the reservists to re-enroll immediately in Class 5, the volunteer reserve organization, which carries with it a real obligation of service to the nation, but has no promise of financial reward. There is no retainer pay or other gratuity in Class 5 and for the present, at least, its members are asked to hold together on nerve and grit alone.

"The Naval Reserve Force has twice emerged from a war with a record of honorable service, and in the emergency that now confronts it, its members can in no better manner show their patriotism and loyalty, as well as the true Navy spirit, than by retaining their membership pending further developments in the manner indicated by the Secretary of the Navy in his letter to those reserves who have been disenrolled," the President declared.

Pauline Stark Signs Contract to Play Lead Opposite Thomas Meighan

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

"COUNT that day as lost whose low descending sun" doesn't set on the signing of a few contracts and the moving of a few make-up boxes from one studio to another. The past week has been particularly busy in that line.

Jacqueline Logan, who has come to the fore rapidly since Marshall Neilan persuaded her to leave Ziegfeld's Follies over a year ago to play under the Klieglights, has been signed up with the Goldwyn concern to play a "lead" in "The Octave of Claudius." Miss Logan is one of the most satisfying leading women on the West coast today, according to the way I see it.

Pauline Stark has signed on the dotted line to play the lead opposite Thomas Meighan in his next film, "If You Believe It, It's So." Miss Stark has been a Goldwyn player up to now.

Marjorie Daw is another to go out and find herself a new job. She has joined the Universal forces to play with Herbert Rawlinson in a new feature picture. I doubt if this is a permanent arrangement, for it's hard to think of a Marshall Neilan production without this player figuring prominently.

Doris Kenyon has agreed to play the supporting role opposite George Arliss in his next United Artists special, "Idle Hands," by Earl Derr Biggers. Miss Kenyon will double up stage and screen this season, as she opens on Broadway soon in "The Love Chef."

Niles Welch, too, has decided that variety is the spice of life and has made arrangements to play opposite Elaine Hammerstein in a new Selznick production, "Why Announce Your Marriage?"

LON CHANEY DOUBLES

LON CHANEY'S remarkable talent in characterization has called forth more than a little praise from professional and non-professional critics alike. In the Goldwyn film, "The Octave of Claudius," Chaney will have two chances to make a hit with his admirers. He will play two roles, that of a hunch-back and an ape, no small feat.

CAMERA CLICKS.

MABEL NORMAND has finished her first Mack Sennett special production, "Molly O," which is said on good authority to be the best piece of work she has done for the screen. She will not leave the Sennett fold, however, but is ready to start work on another comedy feature within a few days. The title and subject have not been announced yet.

MARY and Douglas Fairbanks have just bought a new car in Paris and will take a motor tour through Switzerland and Italy. They expect to be away for about a month.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS is on "on location" at Wiscasset, Me., where he is taking "exteriors" for his second independent production for Inspiration Pictures. His mother, Mrs. Caroling Harris Barthelmess, is with him.

THE first thing Charlie Chaplin did when he arrived in New York from his European trip was to visit the Astor Theatre on the invitation of Samuel Goldwyn, where the Italian production, "Theodora," is being shown. Such crowds stormed the theatre in attempts to see the comedian that police reserves were called out and the traffic was deflected through another street.

STEALING THE DINNER OF CARDINAL'S GUARD

SCENE FROM "THREE MUSKETEERS"

'DOUG' CAUSED MATINEE GIRLS TO SWOON

Played Romantic Role on the Stage Before Entering Land of Filmdom

"How can a comedian like you play a romantic swashbuckler such as was D'Artagnan?" asked the business manager of Douglas Fairbanks company, when that film star announced his determination to screen Dumas.

"Huh," replied Douglas. "Guess you don't know my career. I used to be very romantic on the legit stage. You never saw 'Hawthorne of the U. S. A., did you?"

"No."

"Well, it didn't live very long. I was the most romantic hero in that. When I made love the matinee girls swooned in their chairs."

"But the film patrons expect you to be funny."

"Say, don't you ever read? Why, there are as many laughs as there are fights in 'The Three Musketeers.'"

Now that we see the picture we admit "Doug" is right. The scene in which he steals the dinner of the Cardinal's guard and brings it home to his own hungry companions convulses every audience which sees it. And there are many other incidents in the play which are downright funny and yet which were not interpolated for movie purposes. They are all in the book.

IRISH PERFECT PLANS FOR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Additional plans for the membership drive of the Massachusetts Council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic were discussed at a special meeting of the State executive meeting at No. 67 Milk street. The organization hopes to increase its membership to 250,000 before January 1. Branches of the State council will conduct memorial exercises in all cities and towns in the State on October 25, in memory of the late Cork Mayor, Terence MacSwiney, who a year ago gave his life for Irish liberty.

Has Prominent Role in Big Film Success "Over the Hill"

MARY CARR

Martha Washington, Barbara Frittchie, Dolly Madison.

These are some of the great American women who have been interpreted on the screen by Mary Carr, now playing the poor old mother in "Over the Hill."

And when Mrs. Carr plays a mother she is simply acting naturally, because she is a mother, and has six children, no less. Four of the six youngsters play roles in "Over the Hill," so that the family pay roll each Saturday night is an exceedingly fat one.

Mrs. Carr comes from Philadelphia, where she played in stock until her marriage. She had retired from the stage for some years when she was induced by William Fox to go into films to interpret certain types.

Mary Carr, off the stage, is an agreeable woman of about forty years. Her aged and decrepit appearance are triumphs of the actor's art.

MISCHA VIOLIN PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

Russian Artist Plays With Much Expression and Has Bright Future

By FREDERICK JOHNS

A new violinist dawned upon the local horizon last night when Mischa Violin played to a packed house in Steinert Hall. If he never does anything else he deserves cheers for beginning his concert promptly at the advertised time and making the late comers, of whom there were several hundred, wait outside until he had finished his first number.

Violin, I am informed, is a Russian name, and not one chosen by our artist because he played the fiddle. He is thinking of changing it or spelling it differently, so people won't think it just an unimaginative nom de guerre.

The boy is good looking an dartistic in manner. He stands well and bows well. He plays authoritatively and confidently. His tone is broad and mellow, refined and agreeable in quality. His program was not very novel, the Concerto in D minor of Vieuxtemps, Saint Saens enormously overplayed Rondo Capriccioso were included, but perhaps he was right. To properly judge an artist one should hear him in something all the other artists play. He gave an interesting group, including a Romance by Wagner Wilhelmj, two bits by Godowsky, Viennese and Valse Macabre, and Ronde des Lutins of Bazzini, a charming little thing.

He played with a lot of expression and considerable temperament. Evidently an intelligent violinist, and one has a good future.

U. S. SUPERVISION FOR BRIGHTON STOCK YARDS

Washington, Oct. 20.—A list of the stock yards which, under the Packers and Stock Yards act, will come under the supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture on November 1, was made public here today. The yards of the Brighton Stock Yards Company, Brighton, Mass., was the only New England plant posted.

FEW THEFTS OF U. S. SUPPLIES IN RUSSIA

London, Oct. 20.—Thefts of food supplies sent to Russia by the American relief administration have been very small, says a letter from Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the administration, which is quoted by today's London Times. The letter concerns primarily reports that the Russians took large quantities of supplies sent to Petrograd on board the Danish steamship Phoenix, and Mr. Brown declares the loss occasioned by the action of longshoremen there was only slightly more than one-half of 1 per cent. of the cargo.

BELFAST BISHOP GRATEFUL FOR RELIEF AID

In Vivid Letter Tells of Intense Suffering in Irish City

A letter received from the Rt. Rev. Bishop McRory, of Belfast, emphasizes very strongly the need of funds to relieve the suffering in the city of Belfast.

The letter has reached the headquarters of the Irish Relief Committee in Boston, and is enlightening on the situation in Belfast.

It is in part as follows:

"You have probably been expecting a letter from me before now to inform your committee of the conditions and outlook in Belfast. Unhappily, I cannot report any improvement; on the contrary, things seem to be growing from bad to worse.

"After the lapse of more than a year, all our expelled workers are still excluded from work, and in the meantime numerous other expulsions have taken place, not only in Belfast but in Londonderry and other Orange centres.

DRIVEN FROM HOMES.

"Hundreds of families have been driven from their homes without any hope of ever being allowed to return, and even as I write, large areas of Belfast are given over to savage rioting and carefully-planned attacks on our poor Catholic people.

"Within the past ten days, sixteen people have been killed and at least 200 wounded, bringing the number of killed since July of last year up to 121 and of wounded 970.

"On Sunday, the 16th of July of the present year, over 150 Catholic families had their homes burned or ruthlessly looted, and as I think C. J. France, the worthy director of the American delegation, has informed you, after their neighbors had exhausted every effort to accommodate them, we were forced to find shelter for many of the unhappy victims in the schools convenient to the ruined area.

"It is an appalling condition of things in a city which is supposed to be civilized and Christian, and in which the civic authorities are never tired of paying lip service to law and order and of boasting their devotion to the cause of civil and religious liberty.

SAVED BY AMERICA.

"But hard and terrible as is the condition of my poor people, it would be incomparably worse in some respects but for the munificent help you have sent me from America.

"If some 30,000 Belfast Catholics have been saved from certain famine during the past four or five months, it is to America almost exclusively that the credit is due.

"Every week during that time, our local relief committee has been receiving about $20,000 of American money through the Irish White Cross and but for that money famine would have been inevitable.

"You have saved us, therefore, and are still saving us from the horrors of famine, and I should like your committee and the American people to know that we deeply realize our indebtedness. Believe me, the hearts of my poor people are full of gratitude and our fervent prayers ascend to God for all who have succored us in our hour of need.

"If all Ireland is profoundly grateful for the five million dollars being raised in America for Irish sufferers, how much more so are the Catholics of Belfast who are receiving so largely from your funds and to whom your generosity is a matter of life or death."

In announcing the receipts of Bishop McRory's letter, the American Committee stated that $2,189,600 had been remitted to Ireland to date, and that fifteen thousand pounds went forward weekly. From Bishop McRory's letter, the committee seemed to think it likely that close to $1,000,000 would be required for Belfast alone.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

"Waitresses" Chosen For Woman's Day at Copley-Plaza

AS is to be expected, the Misses Louise and Rose Fessenden of Chestnut Hill, in their capacity as head waitresses for Woman's Day at the Copley-Plaza Hotel November 16, have selected some of the most attractive and popular members of the younger coterie to serve under them on that day.

I note that Miss Edith Bremer, daughter of Mrs. S. Parkman Bremer of Marlboro street, is included in the list. Society folk will recall Miss Bremer, who belongs to the 1917 contingent of the Sewing Circle, as the very attractive bridesmaid at the wedding last June of her cousin, Miss Eleanor Bremer and Francis Parkman, the ceremony taking place in the First Parish Church, Brookline. Working with Miss Bremer will be her sister, Mabel Bremer, who made her debut last year.

Another pair of sisters who will wield their trays in the Copley-Plaza dining room are Isabel and Peggy Porter, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Porter of Beacon street. Isabel numbers among the debutantes of last season, while Peggy is due to make her bow this Fall. She has already been made a provisionary member of the Junior League, but there is none who doubts the ability of the daughter of the very energetic and capable Mrs. Porter to become a "regular" member. The Porters, by the way, were up at Squam Lake, N. H., this Summer, where they had a camp for the season.

The ever-busy Sylvia Warren is also one of the prospective waitresses for Woman's Day. Miss Warren, the daughter of Mrs. Samuel D. Warren of Beacon street, is one of the most enthusiastic workers for the Simmons College endowment fund campaign, and ever since the drive began she has been busy canvassing subscriptions for the college in the Fenway.

She, with Olivia Amess, daughter of the Oliver Amesses of Commonwealth avenue and North Easton, and Frances Webster, daughter of Mrs. Edwin S. Webster of Chestnut Hill, have under them a corps of this season's buds who are devoting themselves to canvassing for subscriptions.

The Misses Fessenden have also selected Elizabeth Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill, daughter of Endicott Peabody Saltonstall, who is for the time being replacing Assistant District Attorney Nathan Tufts. Others include Susan Lee of Chestnut Hill, Dorothy Weyhart of "Redgate Farm," Framingham; Frances Hood of Chestnut Hill, Helen Scott of "Homewood," Wellesley and Eleanor Musgrave of No. 304 Marlboro street. The last two mentioned are "debs" of this year.

Working with Mrs. Sewall Fessenden in the Bridge Room will be Mrs. S. Parker Bremer of Marlboro street, Mrs. C. W. Blodgett and Mrs. Sullivan Sargent of Brookline, who is also chairman of the candy booth committee.

Speaking of the Fessendens, I note that the entire family is working for the affair which is to make such a lasting impression upon every patron of the Copley-Plaza on November 16.

Besides being one of the three head waitresses for the main dining room, Louise Fessenden has also been asked to procure a number of Vincent Club girls to serve in the Japanese tea room. Her mother, Mrs. Sewall H. Fessenden, (Caroline Lee), will aid in sponsoring the Bridge Room, under Mrs. Albert I. Creil of Beacon street.

The Flower Stand will be in charge of Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr., (Caroline Fessenden), an elder sister of the Misses Louise and Rose Fessenden, and with this very charming and popular young woman in charge, it seems trite to add that a rushing business is expected at the stand where nosegays of all sorts will be sold.

Members of the Boston colony along the North Shore will be interested to learn of the marriage on Wednesday of William John Caner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison K. Caner of Philadelphia, to Miss Elizabeth Strubing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Strubing of Chestnut Hill, Pa., where the wedding took place.

The Caners have a Summer estate, "Felsenmere," at Manchester, and last Summer the bride was the guest of her fiance at the North Shore. The groom is a Harvard man, class of '19, and among his ushers were Everet Fabyan, class of '20, of New Bedford, and Richard D. Sears, Jr., '19, of Beacon street, who was one of the ushers last week at the wedding of his sister, Miss Miriam Sears, to James Jackson Minot, Jr., at the North Shore.

The Rev. William G. Thayer, D. D., headmaster of St. Mark's School in Southboro, was one of the officiating clergymen at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. After January 15, Mr. Caner and his bride will be "at home" at Seminole and Willow Grove avenues, Philadelphia.

The groom's parents, who went on from Manchester to attend the wedding, will return in a few days to their North Shore place, which they plan to keep open until well in November. They have been numbered among the Summer colony at the North Shore for several years and are well known in Boston.

WILLYS TAKES OVER AUTO SALES BUSINESS

The automobile sales business formerly handled here by Connell & McKone, Overland and Willys-Knight dealers, was taken over today by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Company of Toledo, which has purchased the local plant. The move is said to be in line with the new policy of the parent company, which is seeking to operate its own branches in all large centres of population.

All New England Overland dealers met at noon today in the Beacon street salesrooms for an address by Mr. Willys, who discussed in detail business conditions as they affect the automobile industry.

ULMER BRINGS $100,000 SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Charges He Was Maliciously Prosecuted in Fight Over Wood Company Stock

Charging malicious prosecution, W Edwin Ulmer, a Boston lawyer, has brought suit for $100,000 against John E Hannigan, liquidating agent of the Prudential Trust Company, H. George Alpert, assistant to Hannigan; Clarence A. Barnes, receiver of the Henry Wood's Sons Company; Harry G Sleeper assistant to Barnes and counsel for the Wood's Sons Company and Henry Wood

The action is an outgrowth of the arrest of Ulmer and his subsequent acquittal on the charge of conversion of material of the Wood's Sons Company, upon which the Prudential Company had claim.

Ulmer charges the prosecution was malicious and demands vindication.

It was in this action that Barnes struck Ulmer while in court at Dedham alleging that Ulmer had made a move as if to draw a weapon

Ulmer, in discussing his suit, declared that he held the capital stock of the Wood concern as collateral on a note and alleged that the entire trouble was due to the fact that the stock was in his hands

This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package. —Advertisement.

WOMEN FORCED TO CAST VOTES IN BOSTON

Wives of Many Men Registered From Clubs in City Must Ballot Here

Many women not living in Boston will have to vote here or not at all at this Fall's elections throughout the State, because their husbands have registered in Boston, giving local clubs as their homes

The women voters' leagues are urging the State Legislature to pass a measure allowing women to vote where their homes are and not according to the place selected by their husbands.

The Attorney General and Secretary of State are preparing recommendations to the General Court.

REGISTER AT CLUBS.

There are many men registered under addresses of Boston clubs and hotels for business reasons, and if their wives or daughters want to vote they must do so in Boston.

They cannot vote in their home communities. Although most of the clubs are exclusively for men, the women will have to call them their "homes" for voting purposes

The Boston City Club furnishes a good example. The following men are registered on the voting list there:

GIVEN AS RESIDENCE.

They have given the City Club as there boarding or rooming place

Charles H. Cole and J. Russell May are registered from the Algonquin Club

The Boston Art Club is given as the address of Albert S. Graves and George S. Pingree

Arthur J. Selfridge gives the University Club as his voting address

In addition, there are many women seperated from their husbands and they do not know where their husbands are living. They cannot vote

DR. WU DECLINES INVITATION TO CONFERENCE

Initial Effort of Lansing to Establish Peace in China Meets With Failure

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, who will be chief adviser to the Chinese government during the armament and Far East conference, has undertaken the role of mediator in an effort to draw together the conflicting elements of North and South China, it was learned today

The internal disorders in China now akin to civil war, are such as to cause officials here grave concern constituting a menace to the decisions of the conference itself. The recognized government at Pekin is admittedly unstable, and Dr Sun Yat Sen, President of the South China government, has left Canton to head his troops in their thrust northward

The initial effort of Lansing to bring the discordant elements together at Washington has met with failure, it was learned today. Acting at the instance of the Pekin government, which he represents, and presumably with the sanction of the State Department, former Secretary Lansing addressed a personal message to Dr Wu, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs in the south government asking him to come to Washington to take part in the conference. Lansing assured him of a place in the Chinese delegation

Dr Wu replied with a flat refusal He could not, he said be an official of two governments at the same time, and unless the United States States government saw fit to invite representatives of South China to Washington, South China would have nothing to do with the conference and it would not regard as valid any of the decisions affecting China taken by the conference.

CAMBRIDGE MOTHER SEEKS WORD FROM SON

Worried over the failure of their oldest son, who disappeared April 17, to write home, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick C Monahan of No. 80 Bolton street, North Cambridge, have asked the Boston American to find him. His mother thinks he has entered the navy

Silk Stockings Led to Murder of Wife, Police Allege

By Universal Service.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—A pair of silk stockings led to the death of Mrs. Myrtle Ellen Brown in the opinion of the authorities. Her husband, Carl Brown, twenty-four, who is being held, said she accidentally shot herself

"Brown was extremely jealous," said Lieutenant James L. Mooney of the police today "His wife's parents bought her a pair of silk stockings. When he saw her wearing them he made her take them off. I am working on the theory that the quarrel may have terminated in her death."

RADCLIFFE IS THROWN OPEN TO PUBLIC

Costume Tableaux Mark the Beginning of Drive for for $3,000,000

Radcliffe College opened its intensive drive for $3,000,000 endowment fund with an "open house" in which all departments of the school were thrown open to the general public for the first time in history.

Costume tableaux constituted the main entertainment for the visitors, young women of the college dressing up in the styles of long ago. Miss Harriet Yerxa, class of '21, appeared in a costume of the early nineties. Miss Dorothy Koch '24 in a nineteenth century dress which measured five yards around in the voluminous fashion of that day. Miss Felice Lliams '24, wore the graduation gown of Mrs. Emily Coolidge Reid of Cambridge, class of 1906

Mrs. LeBaron R. Briggs and Mrs. R. Grandgent poured tea for the visitors in Bertram Hall; Dean Marion Park and Mrs. Paul J. Sachs poured in Eliot Hall and Mrs. George P. Baker and Mrs. Kirsopp Lake in Whitman Hall

At the reception in the evening President and Mrs. Briggs and Dean Park were in the receiving line.

The drive will not end until the $3,000,000 has been subscribed. Scores of prominent women are back of the movement. The money is to be used to provide more dormitory space, improve and enlarge certain buildings and increase the salaries of the faculty

WOMAN SUES MALONE AND FARMER-LABOR PARTY

New York, Oct 20.—Suit for recovery of $1,000 loaned to officers of the Farmer Labor party during the last presidential campaign and for $2,500 loaned to Dudley Field Malone, Farmer Labor candidate for Governor of New York State, has been started here by Mrs. Mary Garland, it became known today. Mayer Goldman, attorney for Mrs. Garland, said he held notes signed by officers of the Farmer-Labor party and Malone for the money advanced by Mrs. Garland

HARDING AT CAPITAL AFTER VIRGINIA TRIP

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Harding and four members of his cabinet returned today from Virginia, where the President spoke yesterday at Yorktown and Williamsburg. The Mayflower dropped anchor at the navy yard at 9:30 o'clock. The President went directly to the White House

Cleopatra Would Ride in a Car To-day

By VERNON RADCLIFFE

CLEOPATRA, the beautiful, the magnificent, would never be satisfied with ancient Egyptian methods of conveyance, were she privileged to live to-day. In place of her chariot, she would speed in a car. In place of her famous barge with chanting slaves, she would own a yacht. And is there any reason to suppose that she would continue the use of ancient soaps, creams and lotions for the complexion, when modern life offers something so much better?

The Menace of Fading Beauty

The life to-day of trains and motor cars and dusty city streets is different from the indolent age of Cleopatra. To-day, the trains roar back and forth into the cities, belching smoke and dust. The streets throb continuously from the exhausts of jamming motor cars. The factories send up clouds of sooty vapor which seep down in gritty particles. All this dirt and dust becomes a part of the complexion, forcing itself deep down into the pores.

It is these impurities, lodged at the very bottom of the pores, which cause practically all complexion blemishes—blackheads, dry skin, enlarged pores, oily skin, pimples and sallowness.

The care of the complexion has become increasingly necessary, increasingly hard. Beauty has been fading earlier and earlier.

Your Skin Must Breathe

A skin cannot be healthy, a complexion cannot be beautiful, if clogged pores do not permit the skin to breathe, to eliminate, to throw off impurities. When these pores are free and functioning, the complexion has a natural glow. When they are clogged, fermentation sets in, the face sinks into sallowness, and wrinkles and blemishes. With all the lotions that you put on, is there any assurance of this foreign matter coming out—that tired Nature can expel the added burden in the pores?

Yet these impurities must come out. Nothing put on the face can possibly be of benefit if the pores beneath are clogged, and to-day they are clogged as they never were before.

Old Treatments Fail

Women have turned in desperation to massage, the vigorous action of human hands. But unscientific face massage has made more old women than age. Under guise of a benefit, it is a wholesale destroyer of beauty. To parboil your skin with half scalding water, and knead and maul the muscles of your face is bound to be injurious. A minute's thought will tell you so. It stands to reason that it breaks down tissue. Massaging will not even cleanse properly, that is down to the bottom of the pores. It merely slicks off the surface. It does not remove dirt, foreign substances and impurities from the place where they do the real damage—down below the surface of the skin. Your Beauty Specialist will tell you so.

Vivaudou's Discovery

Very recent has been the complete change in beauty method by the best specialists and parlors. Victor Vivaudou, famous perfumer, discovered that the best Beauty Shops in this country were using a preparation so wonderful and immediate in its effects upon the complexion, that he arranged for its sole distribution in the home. He says, "Here in America, I have found the one thing which ladies in Paris and all over the world have yearned for—a care of the complexion which is at once natural, convenient and successful—MINERALAVA.

"I have seen its amazing benefits—its amazing success. It is delightful to use. No more wonderful contribution to comfort and cleanliness has ever been devised!"

Answers Modern Needs

Mineralava is the one way to a good complexion—the only way—so startling, so revolutionary in idea, so different from any treatment that you have known that you cannot afford not to know it—to try it.

Instead of being just one more thing to put on the face, to rub in the face, adding to the accumulation of grease and impurities in the pores, Mineralava takes out. It cleanses the clogged pores—washes off—and is gone, all in twelve minutes.

What Mineralava Does

Mineralava, Nature's Beauty Clay, originated by Mrs. M. G. Scott and perfected by her through 23 years of scientific research and experiment, is applied wet to the face, neck and hands, and accomplishes two important results—impossible with other preparations. It draws impurities from the pores and it tightens sagging muscles.

As it dries it contracts, and you can feel its medicinal ingredients penetrating the depths of the pores. You can feel it withdrawing all foreign matter, leaving the pores free and clean.

You can feel the wrinkles being smoothed out. You can feel the flabby skin being made tight and firm. You can feel the cleansing purifying blood tingling through each tiny vein. When Mineralava is thoroughly dry, cold water easily removes it.

Mineralava—Cold Water Face Finish

Immediately, a blooming youthfulness glows and radiates from the cheeks. The long stifled face pores breathe again.

Mineralava Face Finish is a necessary skin food and tonic, acts as a mild bleach and forms a perfect base for your face powder. It has amazing benefit because you can apply it at the proper time, after the pores are cleansed.

Lasting results follow from the use of Mineralava, the cleanser, Cold Water, the invigorant, and Face Finish, the food—in combination.

Lasting Beauty of Complexion

Continue this treatment twice a week and we guarantee, whether you are sixteen or sixty, a beautiful complexion as long as you live—free from blackheads, pimples, enlarged pores, wrinkles, blemishes of all kinds—striking in its beauty and youthfulness.

Ask for Mineralava TO-DAY

Go to your druggist or department store to-day and ask for the Mineralava set containing fifteen home treatments. If yours has not got it, do not be satisfied with an imitation. Write Mrs. Scott herself. She will gladly inform you where it may be obtained. You may try Mineralava right away by mailing the coupon with 25c for the demonstration tube of two full treatments.

Manufacturer's Note: Mineralava contains absolutely nothing which can harm the most delicate skin. We guarantee it, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied after one treatment. Scott's Preparations, Inc., 6 East 37th Street, New York City

WOMAN, ON 100TH BIRTHDAY, GETS PROPOSAL FROM SWAIN, 103

PROF. PAYSON J. TREAT, history department Leland Stanford University, has gone to Nippon to study the Jap problem as related to California. He is an authority on affairs of Far East.

SPUN SILVER and cloth combine to make this modestly decollete evening gown an exquisite creation. The green grapes over one hip adds to its charm. (U. & U.)

YOKED, B'GOSH! This queer harness is called the bucking strap and is used to train line plungers of the Cincinnati University gridiron squad. It's leather except for handles. (I.)

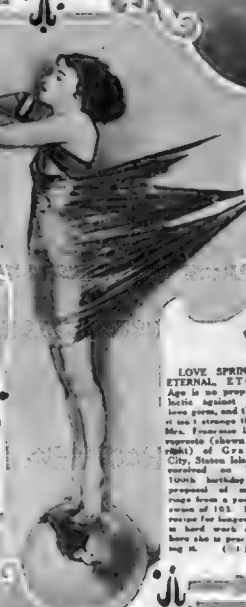

'TAINT FAR OFF! Already the kiddies are preparing for Santa Claus. Here is little Mignon [illegible], the film [illegible], who will take a prominent part in a Christmas play in N. Y. Mignon knows how to strike an artistic pose.

ON WITH THE DANCE! Mlle. Spenelly suddenly left N. Y. and hurried back to her beloved Paris—and this sensational dance costume was the attraction. It is a Poiret creation, but really Mr. Poiret must have been awful short of material. (K.)

CATCHING 'em on the fly! Fokker, designer of Germany's fighting plane during the war, using the hand movie camera in studying aerial navigation problems. (I.)

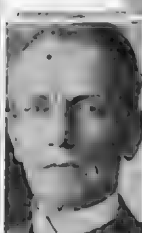

GODDESS OF FLIGHT! Model posing for the winning poster for the International Aero Congress at Omaha Nov. 3-5. Pulitzer race will be held there. (Int.)

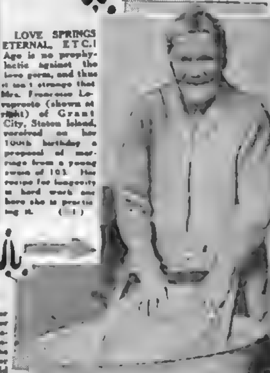

NELLIE CORDELL, nine, has astounded the simple folk of the Kentucky mountains by her ability to read minds. Her father, an eye to the dollar, wants to put her on the stage.

THIS YOUNG LADY, now a celebrated Shakespearian actress, wore this garb in a play far removed from the dignity of the Elizabethan dramas. Do you remember her? She is none other than Julia Marlowe at a time when she [illegible] gained fame in Shakespeare. (Int.)

FIGHTING PARSON! The Rev. Baker P. Lee of Los Angeles, who is making a tour of the country in an effort to legalize wine and beer. He is expected East and may visit Boston. Is a leader of the Sanity League, an organization advocating beer and wine. ([illegible])

IF YOU THINK LIFE IS BITTER, READ THIS! Although hopelessly crippled, Newton H. [illegible] of Piqua, Ohio, is conducting a successful magazine subscription business and at the same time preaching the gospel of good cheer. His bedroom is his office and his bed his desk. ([illegible])

MOTORCYCLING WITH FRITZ! Germany has gone American designers of motorcycles one better, and this up-to-the-minute vehicle is the result. The car exhibited at the Berlin Auto Show, has two small wheels on the side, which prevent it from toppling over when rounding a corner. The driver and the passenger sit in the rear in an enclosed area. It is 3 h. p. and has every convenience.

MRS. MAE LEEDS TELLS STORY OF HER ROMANCE

Met Broker She Wed Later After Being Divorced at Wooer's Request

New York, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Mae Joyce Leeds in her efforts to prove the legitimacy of her marriage to William Joyce Leeds, a broker, told Justice Newburger how Leeds had helped her get a divorce in 1911 from Louis A. Freedley in Boston and how the next day they were married at Nashua, N. H.

Mrs. Leeds said she first met him at Avery place in Boston. They met frequently thereafter. "He told me that he loved me and wanted to marry me," said Mrs. Leeds, "and I told him I was already married to Freedley, that I had gone through a ceremony, that he had left me a few months afterward and that I had seen or heard nothing from him since.

"Willie (Leeds) said he would pay for a divorce. I got a lawyer, a Mr. Sullivan. Later, I told Willie he wanted $75 for the case. I had already paid him $25. Willie didn't like the slow way he was handling the case and didn't pay him. John W. Connelly, another lawyer, was then obtained."

Upon leaving the courthouse with a nisi decree, she said she met Leeds who was then over twenty-one years of age. The next day they went to Nashua and were married by a justice of the peace. Both took the train for New York.

Leeds said he lived with his wife until 1919, when he was told his marriage was not legal. Mrs. Leeds seeks to prove that she entered the marriage in good faith and that it was at least a common law marriage. A child, Barbara, was born in 1917.

JUDGE WHITE LEAVES ESTATE TO WIDOW

Taunton, Oct. 20.—The will of the late Judge Lloyd T. White of the Superior Court, filed for probate, leaves $20,000 in personal and $10,000 in real estate. His widow, Mrs. Esther S. White, is made the sole beneficiary.

WATSON HITS SUPREME COURT AND REPUBLICANS

Washington, Oct. 20.—The decision of the United States Supreme Court exempting stock dividends from taxation was attacked in the Senate by Senator Watson, Democrat, of Georgia. "Every lawyer knows that decision was a perfectly rotten decision," Senator Watson declared. He attacked the nonlabor tax restoration bill and charged that the Republicans were catering to the desires of the Standard Oil Company and the Steel Trust by proposing the measure.

THEFTS OF AUTOMOBILES DECREASE 10 PER CENT.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—Despite a 20 per cent. increase in the number of automobiles, thefts of automobiles decreased 10 per cent. in 1920 as compared with 1919, according to statistics made public at headquarters of the National Automobile Dealers' Association here. The association attributed the decline in results obtained from the federal motor vehicle theft law, more stringent laws in various States for the punishment of automobile thieves and vigorous police activity.

LONE BANDIT ROBS CANADIAN EXPRESS

Montreal, Oct. 20.—A lone bandit today held up the Dominion express messenger on the Vancouver-Toronto express, fled the express safe and escaped. The amount of money in express was not known to express company officials here.

ATTORNEY S. C. LOOMIS OF SUFFIELD, CT., DEAD

Suffield, Conn., Oct. 20.—Attorney Seymour C. Loomis, a well-known local resident, died suddenly here today. Mr. Loomis graduated from Yale University in 1882 and Yale Law School two years later, practicing law in New Haven since that date.

PREDICTS EARLY RECOGNITION OF OBREGON

Republican Leader Says State Department Must Reply to Hearst Appeal

San Francisco, Oct. 20—The State Department at Washington is required to answer the appeal voiced editorially by William Randolph Hearst that the United States make known its policy on Mexico, according to Elmer Dover of Tacoma, Wash., who has arrived here from Mexico City.

Mr. Hearst's editorial, printed Tuesday in the Hearst papers, said Dover, "is opportune and entirely fair."

Dover, who was regional director of the Republican party during the presidential campaign of Warren Harding, was for several months the personal representative of President Obregon at Washington. He has made three visits to Mexico this year and is conversant with the general conditions there.

He expressed the view that recognition of the Mexican government is close at hand.

NO TROUBLE IN YEAR.

"It has been more than a year since Mexico has had trouble," Dover said, "with the result that now travel and life there are as safe as in the United States. Continuing, Dover said:

Obregon entered office on a pro-American platform. Since his inauguration he has produced a strong friendly feeling toward the United States.

"Among his own people Obregon's personal popularity was fully proved in the recent centennial celebration.

ARMY REDUCED.

"His record in reducing the army from 150,000 to 75,000 men, cutting down governmental expense, fostering legislation for a national bank system, encouraging the development of a comprehensive school system and establishing law and order prove beyond question General Obregon's strength, fairness and efficiency.

"I do not wish to appear critical of the State Department in refusing at this time to recommend the recognition of Mexico, for there may be some reason unknown to the public why recognition should be delayed."

LESSON IN PLAY FOR RAIL HEADS, HAPGOOD SAYS

Menace From Industrial Wars Shown in "Right to Strike," Writer Declares

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

Staff Correspondent of the Boston American.

Washington, Oct. 20.—While everybody is concentrated on the threatened tie-up of the railroads it happens that a play called "The Right to Strike" is spending the week here at the Garrick Theatre.

It is the first appearance of this play in America, but it ran five months in London, where they have also had to do a little thinking about the relative rights of labor, capital and the public.

The play is a sincere presentation of the conflicting types and modes of thinking and it will help the audiences to look at the subject in a more dispassionate way than is natural to the average person.

In this drama there are well-meaning people who set out to kill one another for reasons that seem sound to them.

ISOLATED VILLAGE.

It happens that the little village in which the action takes place is isolated and fed by only one branch railroad, so that it occurs to the strikers that they can cut off food, prevent strike breakers from coming in, and by starvation of everybody except the union families win a complete victory.

What they are going to do with the victory when they win it is another matter that they do not think as much about. They will get all their demands, they will demonstrate their power and then everything will run smoothly for the laboring class.

Two labor leaders come down from London to take part in the crisis. One is a mere fighter with no idea except to defeat the other side. His principal work is to foment distrust of any kind of dealing either with the employer or with the government agencies, on the ground that as he is less clever the working man always loses by negotiation.

BELIEVES IN CONCILIATION.

The other labor leader has spent a lifetime in the work. He is distrusted by the more violent and angry element, but he is convinced that labor never gains by defying public sympathy and that the right road to progress, the only road, is the slow road of negotiation, conciliation and the use of government machinery of arbitration.

The moderates lose. Violence follows. One of the principal institutions of the town is the infirmary. The strikers keep food away from the patients. They kill one of the young doctors who is acting as a strikebreaker.

Then the middle class strikes. In other words, one of the young doctors gets all the other doctors to refuse not to attend any union family until the strike is called off.

He declares that whatever may be the case in other countries in England the middle class is supreme and if it once shows its teeth it cannot be starved or coerced.

JEER AT THREAT.

The more extreme strikers jeer at the threat of the doctors. The young leader, however attractive, devoted, inexperienced and not too intelligent, is expecting his wife to have a baby. Complications come, her life is endangered and so is the life of the baby. Only a highly dangerous operation can save either of them.

The nerve of the husband and father gives way and he pleads for medical help. The ranks of the doctors also break. The ones who break down the stubbornness of the doctors are the father of the young man who has been killed, himself a doctor, and the widow of the young man, who feels for her human sister thinks of the carpenter of Galilee.

The play puts forth no theory. It does not attempt to prove anything. It does not weigh the relative rights and wrongs of capital and labor.

GIVES PICTURE OF WAR.

What it does is to present a picture of war and to show a sad and kindly skepticism about the reality of gains brought about by the methods of war. A sentence here and there hints that the war of 1914 did not accomplish much that it promised.

In the same way it leaves the spectator feeling that the warlike speeches on the two sides of the industrial war have more sound and fury than they have of wholesome sense or lasting truth.

I suggest that the enterprising owner of this newspaper take the more pugnacious railroad managers and the more irreconcilable labor leaders to see this play.

SOMERVILLE MAN DEAD OF AUTO INJURIES

Thomas Moore of No. 22 Highland avenue, Somerville, is dead at the Quincy Hospital from injuries received when the car in which he was riding along Adams street, Quincy, struck an ice wagon, skidded against a telegraph pole and overturned.

Two others, Miss Julia Dennehy of No. 27 Peterboro avenue, East Milton, and Dennis Dennehy of No. 231 Codman street, Dorchester, are still on the danger list at the Quincy Hospital. James A. McLaughlin, No. 34 Cottage street, Roxbury, is recovering from bruises and shock.

DR. VAN NESS PREDICTS A NEW GERMANY

Despite the fact that he forecast efforts on the part of the military party to bring about a war between the United States and Japan in order to weaken Japan's supremacy in the East, the Rev. Thomas Van Ness, who spoke to 150 members of the D. A. R. in the Hotel Vendome, declared that he expected to see a new kind of Germany arise from the turmoil left by the late war. The military party, he said, is greatly in the minority there and the people desire peace and democracy. He prophesied the birth of a new Germany—"The Germany of Beethoven, Bach and Mendelssohn."

104TH INFANTRY VETS TO FORM ORGANIZATION

Final steps which will complete the organization of Greater Boston Post 104th Infantry Veterans Association will be taken tonight at a meeting of the organization in the Y. D. Club. A supper will be served at 8 o'clock, with a smoker following the conclusion of the business of the evening. All Boston men who served in the 104th Infantry are urged to attend.

"SCOTTY" MEMORIAL UNVEILING NEXT WEEK

All the pupils of Boston schools who are newsboys will be allowed to leave at noon on Friday, October 28, to attend the dedication of the newsboys' memorial to "Scotty," which takes place at the Town Hall in Brookline. During the afternoon the Boston Elevated will carry all newsboys to and from Brookline free of charge on presentation of proper badges.

EXTRA! Sherlock Holmes Returns!

The Greatest Detective the World Has Ever Known Resumes His Work After Six Years' Absence

"Well, Watson, it is good to see you in your old quarters once again. You come at a critical moment. I'm expecting something this evening," said Sherlock Holmes to his faithful friend, Dr. Watson.

"Expecting what?" Watson inquired.

"To be murdered, Watson," the great detective replied, calmly.

"No, no, you are joking, Holmes! But can't you have the fellow arrested?"

"Yes, Watson, I could. That's what worries him."

"But why don't you?"

"Because I don't know where the diamond is."

"Ah, the missing crown jewel!"

"Yes, the great yellow Mazarin stone. I've cast my net and I have my fish, but I have not got the stone. What is the use of taking them? We can make the world a better place by laying them by the heels, but that is not what I am out for. It's the stone I want."

"Well, Billy, what is it?" asked Holmes, as his servant appeared in the room with a card upon a tray. Holmes glanced at it with raised eyebrows and an amused smile.

"The man himself. I had hardly expected this. Grasp the nettle, Watson! A man of nerve. Possibly you have heard of his reputation as a shooter of big game. It would indeed be a triumphant ending to his excellent sporting record if he added me to his bag. This is a proof that he feels my toe very close behind his heel."

"Send for the police," Watson urged in alarm.

"I probably shall, but not just yet."

"Look here, Holmes, this is simply impossible. This is a desperate man, who sticks at nothing. He may have come to murder you."

"I should not be surprised."

"I insist upon staying with you."

"You would be horribly in the way."

"In his way?"

"No, my dear fellow, in my way. Please leave at once."

PLAYING THE HOOK SHOT CORRECT STYLE AND ITS ADVANTAGES

By JOCK HUTCHISON

The hook shot, or the "pull," as it is sometimes called, is exactly the reverse of the slice. The hook starts out just as if it were going to finish in the long rough glass along the fairway at the right hand side, but in reality takes a decided turn and travels down the course, gradually pulling to the left.

Just as in the slice, there are those who hook naturally, or do it rather through fault than by intent. It is much more difficult to hook than to slice, just as it is more difficult to throw an incurve in baseball than it is to throw an outcurve.

Beginners usually slice, so it is the advanced pupil that has trouble with the hook. I have had my share of this myself, so I know whereof I speak.

The hook has a little more fun to it than the slice, as it is applied in a different way. The hook carries overspin while the slice has more of a backspin.

A golfer with a natural hook usually turns over the forearms, which tends to produce overspin. The slicer cuts under the ball more, giving it a backward twist.

Of the two I think the hook is preferable to the slice. If you can call a fault preferable. The hook is usually easier to cure, gives you more distance and in some instances is desirable.

When the hook is intentional it is very useful. The expert knowing that such a shot is required can bring it off to perfection nine times out of ten. The professional or the star amateur player is unlike the duffer as he finds it easier to hook than to slice.

• • •

The stars sometimes overdo it. In pressing for distance a player of the first calibre will be more inclined to pull than he will to slice. This is about all the really long hitter has to worry about.

• • •

A great many pros [illegible] without changing their stance. They of course make up for this by the change of grip and the use of the forearms.

I prefer to hook by means of the stance. [illegible]

from the [illegible] so it naturally keeps on going straight in the direction of the rough to the right just as I explained before.

The follow through will necessarily be longer than is the case with the slice because the club has a greater distance to travel. I hope this is perfectly plain to the reader, as it is something that is hard for beginners to grasp.

I have described my way of standing to the ball for the pull but I would not advise my pupils to adopt an open stance and expect to get the desired results.

• • •

One should take his stance for the pull with the left foot closer to the line of the flight than the right. See that the ball is well back opposite the right heel.

• • •

This is not all there is to the trick. The hands and the arms play an important part too. In [illegible] the ball I told the reader the other day that the two V's made by the thumb and first finger in gripping should be on top of the shaft.

It should be impossible to see the knuckles on either hand in this case but in pulling the ball the closed palm of the right hand points to the sky so it is possible to see the fingers clearly and the left hand knuckles can also be seen.

The right hand and wrist are also snapped in firmly and sooner.

This will bring the club head on to the ball with a slight turn over as it will have the effect of closing the face of the club at the top of the swing.

YALE PLANS NO CHANGES IN LINEUP

Tad Jones Has Eli Team in Tip-Top Shape for Battle With Army

New Haven, Ct., Oct. [illegible] Coach Tad Jones of the Yale [illegible] team says that strenuous practice [illegible] preparation for the West Point game Saturday is over. He again says that he plans to make no [illegible] changes but to send against the Army the same team which has represented Yale in all the early season matches.

This means that such stars as Quarterback Charles O'Hearn, Guard Harry Cross and Centre R[illegible] Al Norris will be kept on the side [illegible] for practically all the games. They will be used only in case the Army makes the [illegible] uncomfortable [illegible]

B. C. FACES A TEAM MADE UP OF STARS FROM MANY COLLEGES

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Boston College faces a rather unique opponent Saturday afternoon in the Detroit University eleven.

"The [illegible] team," is the characterization employed by some in [illegible] the Auto City array, and that characterization is far from far-fetched, for probably no team in the country boasts a line-up that has won so many letters as has the Detroit varsity.

Joe Gillis, former Tufts guard.

Des Rochers, former Kalamazoo guard.

Coyle, former St. Ambrose end.

Tom Loomis, former Carnegie Tech halfback.

Walter Ellis, former Sheffield tackle.

Britt, former Holderness halfback.

• • •

• • •

In its first game Detroit trounced Franklin College 35 to 0, in its second game Detroit vanquished Ohio Northern 35 to 0; and in its third game, played last Saturday, Detroit defeated West Virginia Wesleyan 55 to 0, and in none of the three games has a first down been registered by Detroit's opponent.

• • •

[illegible] captured the contest 7 to 3.

• • •

[illegible]

Perhaps he makes that declaration now because he will be unable to make it after Saturday afternoon. [illegible] well-rounded and well grounded [illegible] and his team is not apt to follow the tactics of the aggregations which have opposed [illegible] early games that of [illegible] but weak [illegible] in the event the Auto City eleven captures an early lead. Certainly such was [illegible] case last week in the Baylor contest.

• • •

• • •

In past years they have seen Harvard teams founder along through early season games, often being outplayed but seldom being outscored, and then when a real test came, revealing unexpected power and gaining well deserved victory when many expected defeat.

• • •

[illegible] less impressive in [illegible] games than has the present. Except in the case of the Harvard [illegible] eleven in its game with Middlebury only one field goal and not a single touchdown has been tallied by the Harvard team solely on merit. Woeful errors by Crimson opponents in the Georgia game, the Indiana game and the Boston University game led to each Harvard point. Only against Holy Cross was a score registered without the aid of enemy slip-ups and in that case Harvard was held far from the Holy Cross goal line and forced to accept the drop kick method of producing points.

• • •

[illegible] Big Three football prestige is at stake in Saturday's [illegible] for with Princeton [illegible] to be the [illegible] of the Harvard-Yale [illegible] a victory by Penn State over Harvard would force Yale [illegible] upon Yale to supply a record impressive enough to furnish the front page photographs for [illegible] for it would [illegible] for Yale to [illegible] to grant that honor to a team outside the ancient triumvirate.

• • •

A decided improvement in the defensive play of Harvard's ends and tackles and a general sprucing up of the Crimson attack will be necessary if the Crimson is to overcome the powerful and promising Penn State team.

• • •

Penn State's running attack is featured with off tackle sweeps similar to those employed by the Navy team against [illegible] and when such plays [illegible] [illegible] the Tiger tackles [illegible] against the much less rugged Crimson tackles would seem [illegible] and with [illegible] Harvard's [illegible] of forward passes, would be greatly enhanced.

• • •

[illegible] early-season thrill for the Big Red team from Ithaca has run up the largest total of points of the year.

• • •

For some strange reason Gloomy Gil is said to enjoy these virtually useless early season contests against the weakest possible opponents when his faulty attacking system works with success and his faulty defensive system is not tested. Last year Cornell's large-margined victories over such teams as Rochester, St. Bonaventure, Union, and the deplorably weak Colgate team, led Gloomy Gil to neglect entirely to protect his team against a surprise kick and Cornell's first worth-while opponent, the Dartmouth team, pumped a few goals over Cornell's heads that placed the Ithacan team at a decided disadvantage.

• • •

But [illegible] with a [illegible] to [illegible] score against Western Reserve has grabbed the spotlight for the moment and [illegible] for some strange reason seems satisfied.

• • •

The Workman family of West Virginia continues to furnish stars for the Ohio State team. It was Noel Workman, brother of All-America Hoge Workman, whose [illegible] started the Ohio State team on another drive for the Big Ten championship.

• • •

Noel, who is an end by calling, but became a quarterback on request, drove the Buckeye eleven to a 27 to 0 victory over Coach Williams' Minnesota team Saturday, and scored three of the four touchdowns made by Ohio State.

• • •

Michigan has an all America candidate this season in the person of [illegible] an end whose afternoon's work last Saturday was the blocking of a kick, the recovery of two fumbles, the scoring of one touchdown, the registering of three goals from touchdown and the stopping of twenty-four of the Michigan Aggie plays sent at his end of the post line.

JIM ROBERTSON LOST TO BIG GREEN TEAM

Dartmouth Squad Working Hard for Game With Columbia Team on Saturday

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 20.—A long signal drill was ordered for Dartmouth's reorganized first team to get the new men working in harmony with the veterans of the first four games.

For more than an hour the whole coaching staff devoted itself to the long drilling of the new team. At the close of practice a short scrimmage was ordered for teams O and D.

There were no new changes made in the line at [illegible] three men were used in each position. Clarke and Lynch were the first choice at end, with Threshie and Strong used for a short time.

Neidlinger and Hubert were started at the tackles [illegible] being taken by [illegible] Murphy [illegible] for Neidlinger. [illegible] and Carpenter have the call at the guard positions with Kavanaugh and Taylor coming after them. Swede Swanson has the choice at centre.

Jim Robertson was taken to the hospital last night after hemorrhages has developed in his nose and may be forced to rest there for several days.

A long forward passing practice was given the squad at the start of [illegible] with four backfields and four sets of ends working on the passes.

The coaches feel that they will have to rely to a great extent on a forward passing game against Columbia as with Robertson out of the game the Green running offense is pretty well broken up.

Montreal, Oct. 20.—George Kennedy, forty-one years old, Montreal's foremost sporting event promoter, is dead. He was a former partner of Jack Curley and at one time claimed the lightweight wrestling championship of the world.

HARVARD IN POOR SHAPE FOR PENN STATE IN STADIUM GAME

With the most important contest, with the exception of the Princeton games that Harvard has played in years coming Saturday, the Fishermen are in frightful shape and not very likely to survive the blows of a team rated as high as Hugo Bezdek's Penn Staters.

The former University of Pittsburgh's coach has a string of eighteen straight victories at Penn State and faces the test of his lifetime this week-end. But the best Harvard has to meet him is a crippled band of warriors, a number of regulars being unable to play, and others entering the game in very poor shape.

• • •

In reference to the injured Harvard men, this is not "bear" talk. It is gospel truth. But as for Penn State winning, that is another question. The crisis is there and if Harvard survives the crisis with honors that must mean victory in this case—another [illegible] testimonial will be written for the system at Cambridge.

• • •

Percy Jenkins, the alert right halfback, is out of commission for ten days at least, and may not be ready for the Princeton game. He pulled a tendon yesterday and under no circumstances will he be able to play Saturday. Jenkins is the best running back on the Harvard squad and furnishes plenty of morale for his teammates.

Men's Shops

On in one!

Men's four-piece golf suits

$35 and $40

It sure is a joy to do it right, whether it's driving the green or making a golf suit! And these suits made by professionals (although amateurs wear 'em) are just as good golf and just as satisfactory as driving the green in one.

Homespuns and tweeds are the fabrics, brown and gray the colors, and herringbones, diagonal stripes and diamond weaves the patterns. Every suit has trousers, knickers, vest, and coat. Coats are roomy with big shoulder pleats that make for comfort; knickers, vest and trousers are equally well made, and while we call them golf suits, don't forget they're equally skating, snowshoeing, skiing and traveling suits.

And speaking of golf—the shoe shop has an excellent golf shoe at $7.50 and the "fixin's" shop has all wool golf hose from $1 to $5.

Prince Albert's a new note in the joys of rolling!

Talking about rolling your own cigarettes, we'll tell you right here that Prince Albert tobacco has 'em all lashed to the mast!

You've got a handful-of-happiness coming your direction when you pal it with P. A. and the makin's papers! For Prince Albert is not only delightful to your taste and pleasing in its refreshing aroma, but our exclusive patented process frees it from bite and parch! You smoke with the bars down, day and night!

And, for a fact, rolling up Prince Albert is about as easy as anything you know. You see, P. A. is crimp cut and it stays put and you whisk it into shape before you can count three! And, the next instant you're puffing away to beat the very old band!

Prince Albert is so good that it has led four men to smoke jimmy pipes where one was smoked before! It's the greatest old buddy, the friendliest smoke that ever found its way into a pipe or cigarette! If you never got acquainted with a pipe—for goodness sake go get one and get some P. A. and go to it!

JOCK MALONE IS TO MAKE HOME IN BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

Malone was greatly impressed by the fine treatment he received from the fans when he made his debut in a local ring by battling Pal Reed and later when he heturned to our fair city to meet Gans.

The St Paul warrior is also intent upon securing a tussle with Johnny Wilson for the world's middleweight championship and undoubtedly believes that the best place to start a drive for such a tussle is in the title holder's own back yard as it were.

* * *

Shaver O'Brien, South Boston welterweight, will make an effort to southpaw his way to a victory over Woonsocket Joe Gibbs at Lowell tonight. Cy Goodwin states that O'Brien is in splendid condition and that he will make a stout-hearted bid for victory. As for Gibbs, he is one of those rough, willing fellows who always gives the fans plenty of action. Lowell is one of the first of the smaller boxing centres to push its head above the general depression in the boxing game.

* * *

The Boxing Commission did the right thing in granting Nate Siegal a public hearing. Those persons who were responsible for Siegal being set down will have an opportunity to tell their stories. The accused boxer will also have a chance to submit evidence. We believe there would be less dissatisfaction with the Boxing Commission if that body gave all accused parties an opportunity to tell their stories before any action was taken. Many cases look very strong when only one side is heard. We have often been impressed by a story as told by a supposedly aggrieved party only to see it later exploded in court when both parties had a chance to be heard.

The Boxing Commission has probably been right in most of its suspensions. But where it has failed in most cases to grant hearings it has placed itself in a position where its enemies could very well question its good faith.

Messrs. Conley and Carter have issued the following statement

"Jack Conway.

"Answering the charges of the State Officer published in the newspapers, will say that the facts of what happened last Friday night at the Reed-Bogash bout in regard of Nate Siegal are as follows:

"When Nate saw Reed's lip cut he left his seat, went over to our corner and gave Larry Conley a small bottle of liquid he had in his pocket, to stop the bleeding. He had hardly got there when a state officer came over to him in a very belligerent manner, and bellowed in a loud voice, and said, 'Where is your license?' and Nate said, 'I haven't it with me.'

"Then the officer said. 'If you coach any more I will have your license taken away from you,' and Nate said, 'All right, sir.' Nate never uttered another word to him, but sat on the stairs leading up to the ring until the bout was over. The officer did not order him away from where he was sitting and Nate never threatened him in any way.

"We think the fans who were occupying the ringside seats in our section will bear us out in the above statement."

LONDOS-POLK HAVE IT OUT ON THE MAT

A. E. F. Wrestling Champion Anxious to Make Good in Start Here Tonight

Whether Jimmy Londos can "tear the head off" Joe Polk, the Western wrestling star, or not, as the rapid fire Greek wrestler is quoted as declaring, will be shown tonight at the Grand Opera House when the pair clash in a finish match, best two out of three falls.

Polk is out to make a reputation for himself with Boston fans and his record indicates that he is more than likely to do so.

His work as corps and divisional champion of the A. E. F., as well as his work since his return leads to this belief.

The work of Frank Jedloinski against Cyclone Ress will be watched with the keenest interest. "Jeddy" is coming along fast and as Ress has fully recovered the complete use of his eyes and is going better than any time in his career it looks as if Frank will get a supreme test. This match will be limited.

Says a Broker May Be Buying on the Curb One Day and Sleeping on It the Next

A stock ticker is a wonderful thing. A broker can have one in his home and be able to tell that he's gone broke without leaving the house.

It's nice to become poor over a private wire.

He can go to sleep square with the world and wake up in debt.

He buys on the curb one day and may be sleeping on it the next.

A lot of men think they're in the oil business just because they happen to be a janitor in a gasoline station.

You can buy grape fruit, but you can't tell by the stock ticker which way the juice is going to squirt.

They ought to buy sandpaper or glue, it's more substantial.

Many a broker has bought sheep and had the wool pulled over his eyes.

It's nice to have a stock ticker by your bed and know before you get up just what your breakfast is going to cost.

After you yawn a couple of times in the morning, look at the ticker and if you see you've gone broke you don't have to get up.

Many a fortune has been made while a man was sleeping, but then the alarm clock rang and he went broke.

If he could have slept fifteen minutes longer he'd have been rich enough to stay up the rest of his life.

It's pleasant to dream of money, but it's the waking up that hurts.

A man will spend half of his time in bed dreaming about a fortune he'd like to make and the other half trying to figure a way out of paying the broker's commission

BOSTON COLLEGE HIGH MEETS BOSTON LATIN

By FRED C. LANE.

Two real rivals meet today at Braves Field when B. C. High engages Boston Latin. The game promises to be a hummer regardless of the bad start that both have experienced. One is a victim of circumstances while the other has been unable to get a start.

When Coach Fred O'Brien injured his leg early in the season the prospects of Latin School were dimmed considerably. Coach O'Brien is one of the schoolboy mentors who will put up a stiff fight regardless of his material.

* * *

Coach Bill Dempsey has experienced all sorts of hard breaks with his eleven up to date, but the old saying of "every dog has a day" will present itself this afternoon when he will lead his athletes on to the field to repeat the victory of last year by the Maroon and Gold outfit.

* * *

Latin has only one victory this season. It trimmed Mechanic in easy fashion by a large score. B. C. High has been beaten in all three games to date.

* * *

Coach Jack McDonald of Malden will have the services of Al Healey on November 1. That means the light Malden line will be bolstered in one of the guard positions for he weighs 236 pounds. One other change will take place in the lineup that faces Cambridge Latin on Saturday. Cafferella, who has been playing a back position, will give way to "Sheep" Jackson.

* * *

At the beginning of the season it was a choice between them. The showing of Jackson in the last game impressed Coach McDonald. He will try the dusky speedster at quarterback.

* * *

With the co-operation of the school faculty and the student body Lawrence will have a first class football team next season. Charlie Cuddy has taken the reins. Somerville rooters well remember the fine teams that this coach had in his hey day while leading the red and black squad. Lawrence High, like Haverhill, has a large student body from which to draw its athletes. This year's outfit looked promising, but was raw. A few weeks under Cuddy's training will improve it.

BABE RUTH TELLS OF HIS BARNSTORMING TRIP

By BABE RUTH

Warren, Pa., Oct. 20.—We've got everything we need on this club but rain checks. Our first exhibition in a Pennsylvania town would have been a success if it had not been for rain. Rain also spoiled our game at Jamestown, Thursday, but did'nt keep Bob Meusel from driving a home run into the lake.

A fellow named Stephenson pitched against us yesterday. He has quite a reputation in the Virginia League, but being a local product of Warren he was out to thrill the home folks. Say, that boy started after us just like Phil Douglas in the World's Series, the difference being that we got to him in a different manner.

* * *

In the second inning I caught one on the end of the bat that would have gone just about for three bases at the Polo Grounds. It was low and traveling at high speed when it lit on top of an automobile in right field and bounced over the fence and through a factory window.

* * *

That almost cost us a night in the Warren jail. The owners of the automobile and the factory were both waiting for me at the hotel after the game. The automobile owner had lost $50 on the Yanks in the World's Series, and the factory boss was sore because he had gambled on me getting sixty home runs this season. By autographing a pair of baseballs I squared myself with both.

* * *

The folks in these small towns seem to be just as home run hungry as the fans in the big circuit. I think some of them expect me to knock home runs even while our club is in the field. Before each game Bill Piercy pitches to me while I do my best to knock it a mile. If poor Bill happens to pitch balls, that, to the local fans seem too difficult to me, right away they jump all over Bill.

* * *

Piercey is not doing all the pitching. We have a staff of three and if my bad arm continues to heal I will take my turn in the box. Anyone who saw Bob Meusel warming up with a catcher before the World's Series game will recall what a world of speed he showed. I think Bob could groove the plate if the pitcher's box was in centrefield. I really believe he has as much speed as Walter Johnson and if he set his mind to it could make a great pitcher.

My arm is mending nicely. Of course I supposed the doc in New York would still have me sitting on the bench, but I am playing infield and using the arm very little. It is bathed and bandaged before and after each game and will be the same old wing next April.

* * *

I'll admit the thrill of forty thousand Polo Ground fans is missing on this exhibition tour, but there is something about the sincerity and hospitality of the people in these little towns that makes you feel good.

* * *

A little girl here yesterday after dragging her poor old aged grandmother across the slippery, muddy field, handed me a tiny handful of flowers from her little brother, who was sick and couldn't come to the game, she said.

* * *

Every day telegrams come asking us to play in some little nearby town, many of which I had never heard of before.

TAKE YEAST VITAMON TABLETS IF YOU WANT THAT FIRM FLESH "PEP"

Which Gets the Paying Job

EASY AND ECONOMICAL—RESULTS QUICK.

Thin, run-down folks who find that business is bad and employment is scarce should try taking two of Mastin's tiny yeast VITAMON Tablets with their meals for a short time and watch how their physical and financial conditions improve.

Mastin's VITAMON Tablets supply in highly concentrated form true yeast vitamines combined with the other health-giving vitamines which Science says you must have to be strong, well and fully developed. If you are weak, thin, pale, generally run-down or feel lacking in brain power and ambition and want that firm flesh "pep" which gets the money, you surely need some of these precious vitamines in your system at once. Mastin's VITAMON mixes with your food, helps it to digest and supplies just what your body needs to feed and nourish the shrunken tissues, the worn-out nerves, the thin blood and the starved brain. Pimples, boils and skin eruptions seem to vanish like magic under this healthful influence. Mastin's VITAMON Tablets will not cause gas or upset the stomach, but strengthen the digestive and intestinal tract and help to correct even chronic constipation. They are easy and economical to take and so quick and remarkable are the results that complete satisfaction is absolutely guaranteed or the small amount you pay for the trial will be promptly refunded. Be sure to remember the name—Mastin's VI-TA-MON—the original and genuine yeast-vitamine tablet. There is nothing else like it, so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get Mastin's VITAMON Tablets at all good druggists, such as Houghton & Dutton, Shepard Stores, Epstein's, Walker-Rintels, Macy's 3 Stores, Armstrong's 4 Stores, Liggett's.

Why not be a Strong, well-built fellow — with plenty of "Pep" and energy — a clear skin glowing with ruddy health and vigor—instead of having a thin undeveloped body that shows your lack of nerve force and physical power? Just take Mastin's Yeast VITAMON Tablets for a short time and watch the truly amazing results.

Arthur Stringer's Studio Romance THE WINE OF LIFE Illustrated by James Montgomery Flagg

A Stirring Narrative of the Influence of Love on the Lives of a Girl and a Man of the Type That Fills a Big Niche in an Ever Changing Age

The Story of an Ambitious Young Sculptor Who Comes to New York Hoping to Win His Way to Fortune in the Metropolis

THE ACTION SO FAR

Owen Storrow, a young sculptor, coming to New York to perfect himself in his art, meets Torrie Throssel, a strikingly lovely girl studying for the stage under the direction of Herman Kressler, a producer. Storrow saves his cousin, Charlotte Kirkner, from drowning, and she confesses her love for him. Later he marries Torrie and on the advice of Chester Hardy gives up sculpture and starts to write a novel of the North Country. Torrie, very angry when Storrow divulges their marriage, quarrels with her husband, then repents and contritely tells him she has given up her stage work and that he is the only thing that counts. But Storrow grows more and more suspicious of Torrie's past and she more and more restless. He finally bursts out and they have a cave-man fight in their apartments. He then leaves her and goes to work for an Italian statue maker.

By Arthur Stringer

STORROW swung about, trying to dissemble the creeping chill in his blood by a show of anger.

"There seem to be a number of persons actively nursing the same conviction," was his almost passionate retort.

"Precisely!" coolly admitted the elder man. "And that is what has given me the courage to search you out and suggest to you the possibility of disputing their claim."

His Last Word

"All such final decisions must, of course, remain with you. But having done what I conceived to be my duty, I can now bid you good-morning, sir, and take my departure."

Yet in taking his departure, with creaking steps and a pathetic effort at bravado in the brokenly hummed [illegible], Modrynski took away with him the last of Storrow's laboriously fabricated peace of mind. It was like the tearing open of a wound but half healed. It brought the thought of his wife torturingly back to him. It reminded him that his immersion in a trivial slum-cellar occupation was nothing more than an armistice, an interregnum of false tranquility, a burrowing of head of misery beneath the sands of self-deception. Yet he fought against remembrance, just as he fought against the recurring picture of Torrie, of Torrie as a latter-day Penelope without either the fortitude or the distaff of her Old World sister.

Over-Praised Art

To keep his mind on his work was out of the question. The nudity of even a professional model became repugnant to him. It brought back memories that were over-disturbing. And he slowly awakened to the fact that a change of some sort was inevitable, though he stood unable to apprehend even the nature of that change.

In his restlessness, one night, he accompanied Angelo and Maria to a diminutive Italian theatre in Varick place. It was little more than a beer-hall with "Entrata Libera" inscribed above its soiled and dingy entrance, but on that night Angelo fiercely protested, a compatriot of his named Zacconi was to sing, an artist of the first water, a genius with a voice of gold, who should have been holding out at the San Carlo and La Scala, but for an unfortunate love affair complicated with a stil'ettoed rival and a somewhat peremptory flight to South America.

He was effecting an early escape, in fact, when he was arrested by a second singer who stepped out on the narrow stage, a girl in a short pink skirt and little else, a tired-eyed girl with a Greek profile and a heavily rouged and powdered face. He dropped into an empty chair as she sang Monzzocci's "E Piscatori."

"Hello, you mutt!" she coolly murmured, unedging the bluntness of that salutation by the softness of her smile.

"Hello," was Storrow's startled and altogether inadequate reply, as he followed Pannie's stare about the door at the back of the hall.

Towards that portal she nodded a diffident and explanatory head.

"I just sent that Pittsburgh white goods buyer I was showin' the sights to off to dig me up a dozen American beauties or the night was ended. Which same ought to keep him busy sloothin' out a flower shop for the next half hour or so. Where'er you livin' now?"

"I don't pretend to be living," was Storrow's non-committal retort.

"Certainly not like a white man," asserted Pannie, with a suddenly sobered face.

Hard Facts

"I mean anything you want to make it mean," was her reply. "But if you're nursin' any doubts as to what I'm drivin' at I'll blink the bromide by explainin' that you don't impress me as treatin' Torrie Throssel as I'd expect a white man to treat her." She smiled, almost wearily at his quick movement of protest. "Oh, no, you can't flag me off the landscape that light and airy way, at least not until I spill a little of the chin goods I've been gatherin' up for you. I've been in this bone-head play from the first, and I'm entitled to speak a few kind words, now I've collared the chance."

"Words, Pannie, won't do the slightest good in the world," Storrow announced to her, out of a sudden vast weariness of soul which seemed too profound to plumb. And Pannie, for a moment, sat regarding him with studious and contemplative eyes.

"You don't strike me as lookin' any too scrumptious," she impersonally remarked.

"Perhaps I'm not feeling that way," he countered.

"And what's the answer?" she partly demanded.

"That's something it would be only a waste of time to discuss," he told her.

"I can't see that hidin' away from it has helped much," she coolly amended. It was not the flash of contempt from her eyes that hurt him. What wounded him deepest was her ill-concealed kindliness of intent. And at that particular time he was asking for neither pity nor help.

"Debating about it would have the same drawbacks," he asserted in self-defence.

She looked him up and down, appraisingly.

Something Straight

He had to acknowledge his failure to understand what she meant.

"When a game gink goes to the mat," she said by way of explanation, "he sweats blood to get up on his feet again b'fore they count him out for good. When he lays down and takes it like a dead man, they say he's taken the count. Have you?"

That uncouth hand, insinuating itself about the roots of his soul, was anything but a welcome intrusion to Storrow. But he stood without the power to repel it.

"Let me tell you something straight," went on Pannie, calm eyed. "I know Torrie about as well as anybody on this green earth. She's alive and warm blooded and eager f'r the joy o' livin'. She never was a dead one. If the right man doesn't fill her life, there's goin' to be others to step in and turn the trick. But it's got 'o be filled; it's got 'o! And just now there's a guy or two breakin' their necks to persuade her you've thrown her down for good. She doesn't want to believe 'em. She's tryin' not to believe 'em. But women are women, son, and there's a time when they get tired o' waitin' for the right man to say the right word. And if you ain't got the answer she's waitin' for about your person, somebody else is goin' to beat you to it!"

No Reason

"Somebody else, I'm afraid, has already beaten me to it," he deliberately announced. He tried to speak calmly, but it disturbed him more than he imagined to find Pannie Atwill presenting to him a rechauffe of the same dish which Modrynski had already held out to him.

"Do you know what's the matter with you?" Pannie was demanding, with a sudden show of scorn. "The trouble with you is that you ain't old enough to know how to handle a woman. Old Dave was right; a guy's got 'o pass forty before he finds out how to treat 'em right! All you young cubs think about is yourself, and your own feelin's, and your own sore thumbs.

"You're too wrapt up in what you want, to bother much about the woman, and whether you're makin' her happy or not. You're frettin' too much about what you're gettin' out of it to stop and inquire if there's anything big or fine in the way you're treatin' the other party!"

"But I can't find any reason for treating the other party, as you express it, in any other way," he finally asserted, in his inadequate gesture of self-defence.

"Then what're you goin' to do about it?" demanded the girl on the other side of the table.

"About what?" parried Storrow.

"My wife and family?" repeated Storrow as his gaze came to rest on Pannie's rouged face. The interrogative blankness of his eyes seemed to puzzle her for a moment or two.

"You ain't tryin' to tell me," she asked as she leaned impressively forward across the table, "that you haven't been hep to what's happened?"

"Do you mean to say," she slowly intoned, "that you didn't know Torrie was going to have a baby? That in five or six months you'd be having something to walk the floor with?"

Slowly the color ebbed out of Storrow's face. He sat for a full minute without moving, with his unseeing eyes on the face of the girl who abstractedly took a powder-paper from her silver vanity-case and with it dusted her retrousse young nose.

"Of course it's true," she said as she leaned over the table again. "And while I've got the chance I want to plant one bee in your bonnet. If you intend to play ostrich after you've brought this on Torrie you're yellower than any real man I ever knew.

HER OWN WAY

STORY OF A YOUNG GIRL'S STRUGGLES

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

HELEN would see her cousin as soon as possible after she reached home and give him the money for which he would be so grateful.

It was almost noon when Miss Dalrymple informed her that she was wanted on the telephone.

"I do not know whether it is a business or a personal call," the spinster remarked. "It is a man, and he simply asked to speak to Miss Gorman."

"Thank you!" Helen said.

She hurried to the instrument, glad to note that her employer had moved out of hearing of the telephone conversation.

Eager to See Her

"This is Tom," Om Andrews said. "I have taken the liberty of calling you up because I do not want to miss the chance of seeing you on the first opportunity I can make. Are you disengaged for tomorrow afternoon?"

Helen thought swiftly before replying. Indignation siezed her at the remembrance of her faith in this man, of how he and Elizabeth had deceived her, of how near she had come to making a fool of herself in letting Andrews see that she cared more for him than for anyone else—of how he had led her on to fancy that he felt an especial interest in her.

And all the time he had been in love with Betty—had known that Betty was going to discard Willard and marry him!

Decidedly Cool

"Have you any engagement for tomorrow afternoon? If not, may I take you for a drive out of town?

"My small car is closed, so you will not feel the cold, I think. It occurred to me that it would be rather jolly to stop somewhere for a bite of supper before going home. I have been working hard this week—and I am taking tomorrow afternoon and evening off. This is the first chance I have had for any real pleasure since I saw you on the night we had dinner together."

Only for an instant was the girl tempted to think of how alluring the invitation was. This temptation was lost in a gush of resentment.

"Thank you," she said coldly, "but I cannot accept your invitation."

"Oh—can't you?"

The voice sounded so regretful that the listener was impressed by the fact that the speaker was an excellent actor.

THE NEED OF GOOD AIR

—By Brice Belden, M. D.—

NATURE'S best germicide is fresh air, and it is one of the best of tonics. Let it be remembered that the body itself is to a great extent made up of the essential constituents of air—oxygen and nitrogen. In order to replenish the body's store of these vital elements every living room should be well ventilated and much time spent in the open air. It will readily be seen that fresh air is quite as essential as food.

When cold weather comes too many people have a tendency to close windows. If ventilation is properly regulated drafts and chills can be avoided. The free admission of fresh air dilutes a contaminated atmosphere and destroys the germs of disease. So true is this that many public health officials now rely largely upon free ventilation of a sick room instead of using chemicals for terminal disinfection. And all the infectious diseases make speedier recoveries when a free circulation of air is permitted in the sick room.

During the Winter months especially, when respiratory infections flourish, proper ventilation will prevent much illness and will insure greater comfort as well as health. If there is a lack of fresh air in the offices and factories and homes germs will grow and reproduce at a far greater rate, with corresponding increase of the chance of infection, for along with the multiplication of disease-producing organisms will go a lessening of the inmates' vitality.

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

BY HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1921, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

A WOMAN may not get as much excitement out of life's pleasures as a man does, but she certainly gets a lot more thrills out of her sufferings.

Central has nothing on Hymen, when it comes to connecting the wrong parties, and then getting the wires crossed.

The Greatest Thing in the World! Croesus couldn't buy it; Midas never possessed it; Nero sighed in vain for it; Napoleon lost it; and Solomon got too old for it. The thrill in the heart when young eyes meet young eyes!

A man never can understand why a woman will "draw the line" at a kiss and then stand right on the edge of it and dare him to cross over.

No, dearies, a man doesn't take a girl motoring by moonlight, because he admires the beauties of her soul, any more than a burglar enters your house because he is interested in interior decorations.

"Good judgment" is the beautiful inspiration that comes to you the morning after you have bought the wrong stock, backed the wrong horse, or proposed to the wrong girl.

We sigh for "the privacy of home"; but "home" is the one place where a man can never have a private thought, a woman can never have a private opinion; and the only private property that anybody seems to have is his tooth brush.

Only His Knees

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—

THIS life is like a busy plot for raising garden truck; you have to work when it's so hot you'd rather run amuck. You needs must toil through sun and rain to keep your larder full, but though you kick about the strain, things never once grow dull. For you must help the beans along and push the beets and peas, the cabbage plants are none too strong, so you must coddle these. One crop alone you do not sow, you never save the seeds, and whence it comes you do not know, the bumper crop of weeds! Yes, life is like a garden plot, the things you want to grow will be but weaklings, like as not, while weeds take every row. Oh, they're the gardener's grimmest foe; but many a chap succeeds by ceaseless work and hustling hoe in weeding out the weeds. For there's a battle to be fought and in a lively match he sets the burdock's work at naught and kills the plantain patch. They come anew with every rain, they keep on creeping back; and then he grubs them out again with shocking words, alack! It's passing strange how habits thrive that you would fain suppress, but if you stick and sweat and strive you're certain of success. If gardens grew in seemly rows without a slug or weed, the chaps who live by wielding hoes would shortly go to seed. But nothing brings a gladder thrill than grubbing every day, just pitching in with right good will to keep the weeds away.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The Girls at Fault.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Two girls went to a dance and met two young men and danced with them the entire evening. At about 11 o'clock the girls decided to go home, but these chaps lived in the vicinity, while the girls had to travel an hour and a half to get home. The boys said they were sorry they could not take the girls home, but would like to make an appointment for the next day to go bathing.

The girls had already made up their minds to come down Sunday, before the boys made the suggestion, and therefore thought it was a very good idea to meet the boys there, which they did. They spent the entire afternoon bathing, and all of them went to get dressed and were ready at 7 o'clock. The boys then took them to supper and then to an amusement park.

At about 11 o'clock the boys again apologized for not being able to take the girls home. The girls were hurt, but made an indefinite appointment to go boat riding in about a week.

Don't you think it was their duty to see the girls home after spending the day with them? Although they were gentlemen in every way, they seemed to fail in this respect.

The girls want to know whether it would be advisable for them to go boat riding with the boys or would you suggest dropping them. They will not make the appointment definite until they hear from you.

PATIENCE.

THREE hours is a long journey to make in order to escort girls home—but men who are not selfish and lax and inclined to overestimate the importance of their society would make the trip and return gladly. The girls blundered in not saying frankly that they felt decidedly uncomfortable about traveling alone at midnight and that they couldn't come a long distance to meet boys who didn't think enough of them to see them safely home. It's always well to conquer shyness and meet a situation like this frankly. The girls established a bad precedent when they met the men the second time without making it clear that they expected punctilious courtesy. Men give it when they feel it is expected—and they excuse themselves for failing when women have lax and easy going standards, for which they are hardly to be blamed, can they?

Best Recipe Contest

The Boston American is interested in securing the best recipes obtainable from its readers. Each week it offers a major prize of $25 (in the form of an order on your favorite grocer or provision dealer) and ten additional cash prizes of $1 each. Each recipe entered in the contest must be accompanied by the sales slip of a grocer or provision dealer whose advertisement you see in the Boston American, or his name and address if he does not give sales slips.

The recipe winning the first prize is selected each week by Miss Alice Bradley, principal of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery.

High Cost of Living Cake

(No eggs, no butter, no milk. Very nice.) One cup brown sugar, 1 cup cold water, ½ cup raisins, ½ cup lard, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon salt. Boil five minutes. Cool, then add ¼ teaspoon baking powder and 1 cup flour. Also ½ cup of walnut meats if desired. Bake ¾ hour in moderate oven.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

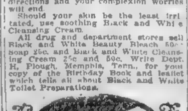

BEAUTY BLEACH

If your skin is blemished by freckles, pimples, moth patches or liver spots, you can get a jar of Black and White Beauty Bleach and a cake of Black and White Soap. Use both according to directions and your complexion worries will end.

Should your skin be the least irritated, use soothing Black and White Cleansing Cream.

All drug and department stores sell Black and White Beauty Bleach 50c, Soap 25c, and Black and White Cleansing Cream 25c and 50c. Write Dept. H, Plough, Memphis, Tenn., for your copy of the Birthday Book and leaflet which tells all about Black and White Toilet Preparations.

BIG ULCER ALL HEALED

"Now I Can Walk," Says Mrs. Southcott of Medina.

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson, of Buffalo. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big-hearted, rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such mighty healing power as Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all druggists for 35 cents a large box."

Read this letter, written February 14, 1921 by Mrs. Albert Southcott of Medina, N. Y. It seems like a miracle, but it is true, every word of it.

Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:—

"I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcers. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6¼ inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again."

"You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Lyndonville, N. Y. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

An Easy Way For Thin People to Put on Flesh and Gain Weight

Strong, Straightforward Advice to Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women

If you are thin, scrawny and undeveloped, if your face is peaked and your cheeks and neck exhibit unsightly hollows, it's almost certain that your nervous system is at the bottom of the trouble. You can eat three, yes four, substantial, fat producing meals a day, but as long as your stomach has an insufficient supply of nerve force this food you eat will pass out of the body with little if any benefit.

In order to assimilate properly the nourishing food you eat and convert it into healthy tissue and fat the nerves that control the process of digestion and assimilation must be put in first-class shape and until that is done you might just as well quit trying to put on flesh. Your system is starving for something that will turn the food you eat into healthy stay-there flesh and it can only be done in one way—by correcting faulty nervous digestion.

Thin, nervous, run-down people, however, with impoverished blood and half starved looks are hailing with delight a quick and certain maker of solid flesh called EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES that is unequalled for repairing faulty digestion and correcting nervous digestive troubles. In fact, the makers of Evans' Triple Phosphates guarantee that one month's treatment will increase your weight by several pounds and within ten days make you feel like a new being full of ambition, vigor and a desire to accomplish things. Macy Drug Co., Frasein Drug Co., Armstrong Drug Co., Stearns Drug Store, Richardson Drug Co., Walker Rittals, and leading druggists everywhere have agreed to supply Evans' Triple Phosphates and guarantee it to do just what is claimed for it or money refunded.

Caution: While Evans' Triple Phosphates accomplishes wonders in nervous digestive troubles and a general nerve tonic, it should not be taken by any one who objects to a few additional pounds of solid stay-there flesh.—Advertisement.

YOUNG GIRL FINDS RELIEF

Wants to Tell Other Girls All About It

Evansville, Ind.—"I am eighteen years old and have been bothered for several months with irregular periods. Every month my back would ache and I always had a cold and felt drowsy and sleepy. I work in a millinery shop and I went to work everyday, but felt stupid and would have such cramps. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and had heard several women talk of it, so mother got me some. This Vegetable Compound is wonderful and it helped me very much, so that during my periods I am not now sick or drowsy. I have told many girls about it and would be glad to help anyone who is troubled with similar ailments."—STELLA LINXWILER, 6 Second St., Evansville, Ind.

Some girls lead lives of luxury, while others toil for their livelihood, but all are subject to the same physical laws and suffer in proportion to their violation. When such symptoms develop as irregularities, headaches, backaches, bearing-down sensations and "the blues," girls should profit by Miss Linxwiler's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

The news that Charlie Chaplin was to enter a theatre blocked Broadway with a crowd that caused something of a riot by its excited efforts to catch a glimpse of the moving picture actor.

What does that suggest to your mind?

* * *

The thought that it begets in me is that things in general are not nearly so bad as represented, and that the people are not bowed down with hardship or apprehension of hardship, but are tolerably well off and tolerably care free.

* * *

Other incidents which have come to my notice strengthen this view. I went into a shoe store the other day and asked for a pair of shoes costing not more than $10. The clerk manifested his surprise at my naming so low a figure, and this caused me to ask him what prices most people were now paying. He replied:

"From $16 to $18 would be the average. There's not much call for cheap shoes."

* * *

A tourist agency announced a pleasure cruise embracing many foreign countries. The management feared there would be little demand for the tickets, which cost hundreds of dollars. Applications not only filled up every stateroom, but a second steamer was chartered and is now almost fully booked up.

Certain automobile manufacturers cannot make deliveries much before New Year, so enormous are their orders on hand.

Home building has begun to boom.

The staterooms most in demand, Atlantic steamship companies report, are usually those on the most expensive steamers and the suites that cost most.

I talked with a high-grade jeweler the other day and he told me that he was doing quite an encouraging amount of business.

* * *

And so one could go on, calling a long roll of incidents and developments tending to show that things in this country are not at all as black as often painted.

* * *

I had dinner last evening with one of the most level-headed of America's business giants, whose ramifications reach many countries, namely Robert Dollar, the Pacific Coast lumber and steamship veteran, who also carries on important international commercial operations. Mr. Dollar has just returned from a business tourney of the Eastern Hemisphere. He was one of the first to foresee that our 1919-1920 boom must collapse, and heretofore, he has consistently cautioned against assuming that better times were at hand. Conservative as he is, however, Mr. Dollar last evening made this deliberate statement: "Viewing the world situation as a whole, and not merely the situation in the United States, I am now convinced that the bottom has just been about touched, and that from now on there should be some, though slow, improvement, leading up to real prosperity by next Fall."

This statement he made after giving full weight to the deplorable conditions in certain foreign countries, including Germany.

* * *

Not without recognizing its rashness, I am prompted to feel optimistic over these matters now active in the public mind:

The threatened railroad strike. I don't believe it is likely to occur, and that, if it should occur, the result will not have a depressing influence upon the future of business.

* * *

The worst fly in the ointment is Germany. Her finances are rushing headlong towards disaster, which only herculean efforts by Germany herself, and by Britain, France and the United States, can possibly avert.

Freight Loadings Decrease

Revenue freight loadings on American railroads decreased 5,538 cars during the October 8 week, as compared with the total for the preceding one. The decrease from the total of the correspondin 1920 week was 115,926 cars.

Railroad Items

For last year the Toledo & Ohio Central reports net corporate income, after ordinary charges and taxes of $1,238,848, against $261,826 in 1919.

Atchison's transportation expenditure for August totaled $5,237,000, or 29.2 per cent. of gross revenue. In July the item required $5,847,000, or 34.5 per cent. of all revenues went to transportation expenses.

Town Loans

East Providence, R. I., has sold $95,000 of 5¼ per cent. highway bonds, dated November 1, 1921, and maturing $9,500 annually between 1922 and 1931, to Industrial Trust Co. of Providence at $96,084.12.

Greenfield, Mass., will receive proposals until noon, October 21 for $85,000 of "hospital and cement roadway bonds, dated November 1, 1921, and maturing in each of years 1922 to 1926 inclusive. Bidder is to name interest rate.

RAILS LED THE MARKET IN AN UPTURN

Sugars Made Gains; Steels Rally and Several Specialties Are Conspicuous for Strength

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, there having been no reaction of importance during the forenoon. Trading was quiet on the advance, morning transactions aggregating 313,000 shares. Rails lead the advance and were followed by steels, which rallied quickly. Sugars were a strong set of stocks. Oils ruled higher all the morning. The price movement was narrow and the market was characterized by hesitation.

Among the strongest issues were American Sugar, Bethlehem B, Crucible, Corn Products, Punta Alegre, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Reading, Endicott Johnson and Stromberg. They were up from 1 to more than 2 points. At its highest American Sugar preferred showed three points gain, while Burns Bros. was up 5 ½. Call money opened at 4 ½ per cent. and foreign dropped to 4 per cent. Foreign exchange was higher, demand sterling opening with a cent gain at $3. 93 ½.

HAD A FIRM OPENING.

The market had a firm opening, with domestic oils among strong issues. Rails were steady and a number of individual stocks, including American Sugar preferred, made good gains. Steels continued under pressure for a while. This was due to the Republic Steel report showing a deficit of $1,893,410 for the third quarter, as compared with a deficit of $883,673 for the second one. For the third quarter of last year this corporation had a surplus of $3,306,873. While the movement in general was upward, some of the leaders backed and filled during the first hour. In most instances the range was narrow. There were good gains for several specialties, including Burns Bros. Haskell & Barker continued to climb and was more active than ordinarily. Famous Players and International Paper advanced more than a point. Jones Bros. and Jewell Tea Company issues were among strongest stocks.

MORE CONFIDENCE SHOWN.

The trend reflected little more confidence in the immediate situation. This was attributed partly to growing belief that a rail strike will be avoided and to some extent to the declaration of a regular Pullman dividend. The statement by President Babst helped American Sugar preferred. He stated that the regular dividend on this issue for the current quarter would be paid and that the company will do no financing at present. The strength of sterling exchange contributed to Wall Street composure at a time when conditions seem critical. The amount of call offered outside of the stock exchange this week at 4 per cent. or less is indicative of an accumulation of surplus funds in New York, despite large government withdrawals. Traders were inclined to be cautious as to commitments during the morning, or until the result of the conference between railway union chiefs and the Labor Board was known. The general disposition was to cover short contracts.

New Haven's Motor Buses

The New Haven railroad has been using a motor bus since August on the Narragansett Pier line and has ordered three more of the Osgood-Bradley Car Co. for use on branches between Tremont and Fairhaven, and between Hyannis and Yarmouth in this State, and between Winsted and Farmington in Connecticut. It is also reported that the New Haven will have a total of twenty-five of such vehicles in branch service before long. These buses are from thirty-five to thirty-eight feet long and will carry some baggage as well as passengers.

Am. Sugar Dividend Safe

The following statement was made yesterday by President Babst of the American Sugar Co.: "For the protection of stockholders from the effects of irresponsible rumors persistently circulated regarding the affairs of this company, I wish to say that the regular preferred dividend for the current quarter will be paid, that the company will do no financing at the present time, that if financing is done in the early future it will be merely a consolidation and funding of the company's floating indebtedness."

Dividend Declarations

Pullman Co. declared two regular quarterly dividends of $2 each, payable, respectively, November 15 to stock of record October 31 and February 15, 1922, to stock of record January 31, 1922.

Mexican Seaboard Oil Co. declared initial dividend of $2.50 a share, payable in two instalments, on November 1 and December 15.

Kellogg Switch Board Supply Co. declared quarterly dividend of 2 per cent., payable October 31, stock of record October 25.

London Market

London, Oct. 20.—The stock market had a steady tone. Consols, 48⅞, off ⅛; 3½s war loan, 89¼, up ¼; 5s, 89⅞, off ⅛; 4½s, 82½; 4s, 96⅞, up ⅛; French 5s, 86; Russian 5s, 7½; 4½s, 6½; 4s, 5½.

BUSINESS GLOOM IN CHICAGO, SAYS EVANS

Merchants Generally Feel That Revival of Trade Has Not Made Good

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—There is a state of disappointment bordering on gloom among well informed business men in this city, which is not altogether accounted for by the proposed railroad strike. It is due to many current facts of this country's and the world's commerce and finance.

Those who try to state the case and account for mental depression assemble all the facts of the recent and current conditions, strike an average and conclude that the "revival of business" has not made good.

Some of them have been too sanguine and when they see hesitation succeeding spirit in the steel market, they wonder if the signs have not humbugged them a bit. It is admitted that steel is improving, but it is thought that the buying side is so infirm of purpose that it does not dare to buy with any liberality.

LUMBER MOVING WELL.

From merchants come fairly satisfactory advices and the mail order houses are doing much better than heretofore. Reports from Sears, Roebuck & Company are cheerful and Butler Brothers are increasing their force. The shoe trade is notably good. Lumber is moving well.

Over against these things may be set the expectation of reductions in wages all along the line, but back of it all is the condition of the farmer, which is causing a great deal of anxiety.

There is a special sting in the fact that wheat sold so low yesterday after its large decline Tuesday and after the long period of shrinkage in price. A large operator, being asked what was the matter with the wheat, replied: "No demand." But he followed up this statement with reference to the immense receipts now burdening the Chicago market, the large Canadian crop and the menace of Argentina.

FEAR LIQUIDATION.

The latter country has a large quantity of old wheat on hand and another crop is coming on a month hence, the exportation of which will begin not later than January. There is an evident fear that Argentine holders of this grain will do what American holders have been doing lately, especially the farmers themselves, that is liquidate.

But the decline in wheat is not a bad case of statistics. The government figures do not indicate any extraordinary burden, though the quantity may perhaps be considered large by comparison with the ability of the rest of the world to pay for the feed. Possibly this country should not complain, inasmuch as it has exported in nine months of this year 100,000,000 bushels more wheat than in the corresponding period of 1920, but our market having been relieved of so much of the grain and prices still going down, the bulls do not feel very happy.

The comment runs to other items in the markets. A well informed man said that he would be surprised if International Harvester were paying a dividend a year from now. The other industrial stocks naturally got a part of the shadow which he was casting. The Pullman Company has done a thing which might be recommended to some others, if they are strong enough to afford it, that it has not only declared its dividend for this month but for February. This asserts the financial strength of the company and tells the public not to be unduly cast down by temporary troubles or inconveniences.

HEAVY BUYING OF PULLMAN.

It was a pity to assault a company as Pullman was assaulted Tuesday, for once it is put in the cripple class it is likely to limp for a long time afterwards in spite of its extraordinary strength. Large buying of that stock yesterday tells what Chicago people think of it.

The moderate recovery in marks has created no new confidence in that line. Political disturbances are looked for in Berlin, growing out of these financial troubles. Yet, one sees many evidences that Chicagoans still dare to speculate in that money.

It gives some people a sense of greatness to order a million of any kind of unit even though that unit may be a small fraction of what one would have to pay for a good cigar.

WALL ST. GOSSIP

By MONITOR

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Dividend surprises either in the form of actual declaration or official indication of maintenance furnished the striking feature of an otherwise dull, but steady market. These upsets for the shorts occurred in the stocks of the Pullman Company and American Sugar and Refining preferred. The Pullman dividend for the present quarter was declared and provision made for the next quarter.

A STATEMENT issued by the president of American Sugar and Refining, stating that the dividend on the preferred stock would be maintained, caused a scramble of the shorts, and the preferred advanced more than five points, with the common recovering nearly 2 points. The shorts in Pullman bid that stock up more than seven points before the close.

IN the general list there was brisk buying of oil shares which brought most of the active issues close to their recent high level. Mexican Petroleum participated in the upward movement and Royal Dutch was firm on cable dispatches from London reporting a rally on cessation on selling from Amsterdam.

RAILROADS maintained a firm undertone throughout the session, and some of the oversold issues scored substantial advances. Among the leaders were Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio and New York Central. The only equipment to show marked strength were American Car & Foundry and Haskell & Barker. The steels were inclined to heaviness, and there was a rather sharp selling movement in Republic Iron & Steel. The chief point of interest in the weekly review of the Iron Age was the statement that there had been no sudden influx of orders for prompt delivery in view of the threatened railroad strike.

BUYING of Missouri preferred is based on a report that dividends will be resumed within a short time. There are 15 per cent. back dividends due on this issue, and while some optimists say that these will be paid within six months, the earnings statement does not indicate such possibility. It is only within the last two months that surplus earnings have been reported and unless there is an unexpected improvement in traffic, statisticians do not see any chance for clearing up these back payments so soon.

CHESAPEAKE & OHIO has been bought recently by firms specializing in the stocks of the coal roads. This buying is based on the expectation that dividends will be resumed in December.

IT was semi-officially announced that $1,530,000 of bank loans of the Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, which were due October 1, have been extended for six months. The report was without effect on the stock.

AMERICAN SUGAR common made a new low for all time Wednesday, and the preferred sold at a new low for the present movement. Traders had a report that favorable statement would be made public by the management and hastily covered their commitments. The advance amounted to some four points in the common and more than five points in the prefered.

PULLMAN which had been subject to some liquidation and some short selling Tuesday reversed its market tendency Wednesday when the directors met and declared not only the regular quarterly dividend of $2 payable November 15, but also declared the regular $2 dividend for the subsequent quarter which will be payable February 15. Short covering and some buying for long account brought an advance of more than 7 points in the stock.

SMALL CHANGES ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

Local Markets Are Mixed as to Movement; Curb Trading Becomes Quiet

Irregularity marked the price movement on the Boston exchange at the opening and during the forenoon. A number of issues did not fluctuate at all. Trading was of usual volume and breadth. Coppers were steady, but transactions in these issues were comparatively few. American Sugar was strong. The common advanced 1⅝ during the morning and the preferred 3½. Eastern Steamship gained more than a point. Coal stocks displayed strength, and rails were mixed in movement. Carson Hill was among the active stocks, but had a narrow range. Point gains were made by Ahmeek and Island Creek. Massachusetts Gas receded one.

Fractional gains were made by American Woolen preferred, Maine Central, Pond Creek, Waltham Watch preferred and United Drug preferred. Small losses were shown by Copper Range, New Haven, United Fruit, Swift & Co., Gray & Davis and Utah Apex.

CURB GREW QUIET.

The Curb had an active opening, but soon became quiet. The price trend was indefinite. Among the active stocks were Boston & Montana, Crystal and Mutual. At the end of the morning Crystal was up 2 cents at 25 cents, Mutual 4 cents at 55 cents, Ruby 1 cent at 34 cents, New Rilla 2 cents at 56 cents and Colorado Extension 1 cent at 57 cents. Declines included Alpha 1 cent at 34 cents, Jerome Verde 4 cents at 15 cents, Verde Mines 1 cent at 23 cents, Hecla Divide 2 cents at 10 cents and Denbigh 1 cent at 7 cents. Boston & Montana lost an early gain.

Gasoline Consumption

The Bureau of Mines reports that this country consumed 11,980,000 barrels of gasolene in August, a high record figure and an increase of 1,080,000 barrels over July. Exports increased 484,000 barrels.

Wall Street Briefs

The Invincible Oil Corporation has issued 150,000 shares of stock which will be offered to shareholders at $10 per share and it has been underwritten by J. S. Bache & Co. and Naphen & Co.

The October 1 condition of the Louisiana cane sugar crop was estimated at 84 per cent. of normal against 88 per cent. September 1 last and a ten-year average of 78.3 per cent. The probable production is estimated at 445,947,000 pounds against 445,053,000 indicated in September, 338,254,000 produced in 1920 and 242,000,000 in 1919.

The Fisk Rubber Co. has applied to the New York Stock Exchange to list $4,305,600 second preferred stock additional and 1,035,104 shares common, no par.

Boston Financial Notes

David B. Newell of the American Cotton Co. has been elected a director of Massachusetts Trust Co.

The New England Oil Refining Co. reports an operating profit for September of $650,000, after $109,793 reserves, as against $528,000 in August, $410,000 for July and $474,000 for May.

The United Verde Extension Mining Co. has secured coal mining rights on 200 acres of land at Gallup, N. M.

Otis & Co. of Cleveland, with offices at No. 45 Milk street, Boston, announce that J. O. Eaton was admitted to general partnership in the firm on October 15.

Up to September 30 the Commonwealth of Massachusetts had received $4,527,018 this year as automobile fees. The increase over the total for the first nine months of 1920 was $625,000.

Corporation Reports

For the September fiscal year the Columbia Gas & Electric Co. reports gross of $14,854,042, an increase of $729,275 over the previous twelve months. Net after taxes totaled $9,816,197, against $9,589,939, an increase of $226,258. Surplus amounted to $4,505,406, against $4,648,869, a decrease of $43,463.

Otis Elevator Co.'s net income for the nine months ended with September, after charges and Federal taxes, amounted to $1,945,015, equal, after allowing for preferred dividends, to $11.62 a share on common, against $2,400,893 or $22.23 for the like period of last year.

DRIED POTATOES PLENTIFUL IF STRIKE COMES

Army Has a Big Supply at South Boston Which Could Be Used

There are thousands of bushels of desiccated potatoes stored at army supply base, South Boston, which could be put to good use in the event of a shortage of food supply, brought about by the railroad strike, according to Colonel H. G. Learnard, chief of staff of the First Corps Area.

Besides this, many thousands of pounds of canned meat are stored at the base which could easily be put to good use in case of an emergency.

In speaking of the anticipated strike, the colonel, who has had some experience in feeding multitudes of hungry people during the earthquake in San Francisco, said:

"We would co-operate with the civic committees in every way possible. Our chief duty in such an event as a strike would be to keep the main lines of railroad open and to protect property. We would safeguard the interests of all concerned but other details would have to be arranged by the Federal government.

"With what equipment we have as well as the officers and soldiers at our disposal, we would, in many respects, aid the city and State in keeping food moving.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Conquered or Money Back

For 40 years, said Dr. Carey, I have been prescribing Marshroot for kidney and bladder sickness, and now that I have retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price, on the money back if dissatisfied plan.

Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms. If you have specks floating before the eyes, puffy eyes, clammy feet or moist palms, backache or sideache, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's Marshroot right away.

It has wonderfully benefitted tens of thousands of cases of kidney and bladder troubles and is the medicine you can always depend upon. Results are guaranteed.

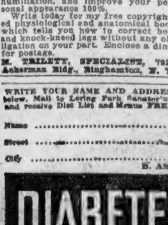

NOTE—Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practicing physician for many years, and his great Prescription, Marshroot, aided thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Hereafter you can always get this effective prescription in both liquid and tablet form at Macy Drug Company, Epstein Drug Co., Armstrong Co.'s Stores, and all reliable pharmacists the country over. Keep in mind the name, Dr. Carey's Marshroot prescription No. 777. No other medicine can take its place.—Advertisement.

Miss Ida Pintarelli Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"Pimples broke out all over my face and kept getting worse. They were hard and red and scaled over, and itched and burned a great deal. My face was terribly disfigured, and I could not sleep. I tried different remedies without success. I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and found great relief, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Ida Pintarelli, 20 Simmons St., Providence, R. I., Jan. 12, 1921.

Keep your skin clear by using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for every-day toilet purposes and Cuticura Talcum to powder and perfume. Bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Before bathing, touch pimples and itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment, dry and dust lightly with Cuticura Talcum, a powder of fascinating fragrance.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

Personal appearance is now more than ever the key-note of success. Fourth reward	50
Fifth reward	40
Sixth reward	30
Seventh reward	20
25 rewards of $10 each	250
62 rewards of $5 each	310
Total	$1,500

It may not be much help to participants in the $1,500 Name-this-Auto Test to know it, but today's is the very car the Test Editor means to own.

From this you properly may infer that this car is not one "you hardly ever hear of and seldom see." This car is popular. Well spoken of. There are many of the make everywhere.

It has been thought best to write the Name-this-Auto Test "scoring plan" in the form of a table and print it every day with the list of rewards. Here you see the value the judges will place upon each correct auto-name and how many credits the letters will receive.

If you have not done so already be sure to clip and save the Rules of the Test the next time they appear. There may not be room to print them many times and they ARE important.

You probably have named today's car already. Tomorrow's may not be so easy. One never can tell.

Scoring Plan.

Perfect score 100%. 1.8% given for each correct identification of an automobile picture. All 50 named correctly will give 90%. And for Walk Right-Drive Right suggestions:

FRAMINGHAM AGAINST EDISON STOCK ISSUE

A protest that the $5,800,000 stock issue contemplated by the Boston Edison Electric Illuminating Company will force an unwarranted and unjust burden upon all the consumers was today made to the State Department of Public Utilities by Town Counsel Edward E. Clark of Framingham. Attorney F. Manley Ives told the commission that the company proposes to sell the stock at $130 a share. Attorney Clark said the stock is now sold in the market at $150 a share and to permit the new issue to drop to $130 would give the new owners a dividend at the rate of 9¼ per cent.

GIRL WHO LEFT SUICIDE NOTE ENDS MYSTERY

Walks Into Police Station With Roxbury Aunt and Comes to Boston

Clinton, Oct. 20.—Pretty Evelyn Brown, sixteen-year-old daughter of Michael Brown, a Bolton farmer, ended the three-day mystery shrouding her disappearance by walking into the Clinton police station, accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Bernice Dowd, of No. 8 Buckman street, Roxbury.

The father and the police had dragged in vain the waters of Welch Pond, near her home, where she said in a farewell note her body could be found.

A second note found later sent the police on an investigation of a man and woman, who formerly lived near the Brown home, and with whom the girl was known to be friendly. Until today they had been working on the theory that she had been lured away.

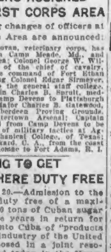

The sobbing girl told the police she had been only a half mile away during the three-day search for her. When she wrote the two notes, she said she fully intended to carry out her suicide pact. She even went to the shore of the pond, but the water looked so cold she did not have courage to throw herself in.

Evelyn stated she then started to walk and asked for protection from a family in another farmhouse. She refused to divulge the name of her family. She stayed there until her aunt arrived from Boston in answer to her letter. The aunt said she had read of her niece's disappearance in the Boston American and was ready to leave the house for Bolton when the postman handed her the girl's letter.

Rather than return to the home she had left, Evelyn said she would commit suicide. The aunt returned to Boston with the girl today.

SOUTH END BOY OF 13 IS RED CROSS ORATOR

Champion boy orator of the South End, thirteen-year-old Julius Ansel has come pretty close to establishing a record by his work in behalf of the Junior Red Cross drive for funds which is now in progress. He has spoken for the Red Cross in every settlement house in the South End and $250 has rewarded his efforts to date.

JULIUS ANSEL.

Julius is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Ansel, of 1056 Washington street, and attends the Quincy School.

NEW OFFICERS ASSIGNED TO FIRST CORPS AREA

Major A. E. Donovan, veterinary corps, has been relieved from Camp Meade, Md., and assigned to this area; Colonel George W. Williams from office of the chief of cavalry, Washington, to the command of Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., relieving Colonel Edgar Sirmeyer, who is assigned to the general staff college, Washington; Captain Charles B. Spruit, medical corps, from Camp Devens to Plattsburgh Barracks, N. Y.; Major Charles B. Gatewood, ordnance, from Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland, to Watertown Arsenal; Captain Hugh J. Fitzgerald from Camp Devens to be assistant professor of military tactics at Agricultural and Mechanical College, of Texas; Major Gooding Packard, C. A., from the coast defenses of the Potomac to Fort Adams, R. I.

CUBA TRYING TO GET SUGAR HERE DUTY FREE

Havana, Oct. 20.—Admission to the United States duty free of a maximum of 2,500,000 tons of Cuban sugar yearly for three years in return for the free entry into Cuba of "products of the soil and industry of the United States," is proposed in a joint resolution introduced today in the House of Representatives. Action on the resolution went over until next Monday.

GALLIVAN LAUDS CONDITIONS AT PARKER HILL

Congressman Tells Director Forbes His Inspection Was Too Hasty

James A. Gallivan, Congressman from the 12th District, has written to Colonel Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau at Washington, protesting against his statement that the doctors at Parker Hill Hospital lack the desirable personal touch with the disabled World War veterans who are under their charge.

"This hospital is in my district and I have had occasion to keep in close touch with the doctors there, and also with the patients. Many of the boys who have gone to the hospital for treatment live in my district," says the Congressman, "and, almost without exception, have praised the treatment they have received.

SAYS INSPECTION HASTY.

"Many times I have called at the hospital when I was not expected and have inspected the place, my main purpose generally being to learn if the doctors were giving the boys personal service as well as official care and treatment. I know that it has been the custom of the doctors in charge to encourage the boys to come to them with their troubles, and I know that the boys have felt free to do so.

"When I know that such is the state of affairs I cannot refrain from saying to Colonel Forbes that his inspection was hasty and casual, and that he did not learn the truth about the relations between the hospital authorities and the disabled.

"It seems to me it is my duty to tell him so because, being interested in the welfare of the boys in the hospitals, I feel sure it is for their best interest to have their friends give recognition to the efforts of those who have charge of them when humane consideration is shown so that the doctors may be encouraged to keep up the good work.

CITES LEGION'S PRAISE.

"I was pleased to see the story in the Boston American stating that the Legion officials who know about hospital conditions did not approve of Colonel Forbes' offhand and undeserved criticism of the good men in charge of the hospital. If these men deserved the criticism I would be among the first to know it and I do not think anybody in Boston believes that I would hesitate to go after them."

That the sick and wounded soldier and sailor boys who are patients resent the criticism and desire their buddies who are going to the national convention of the American Legion to demand that appreciation of their treatment be recorded on the national official record was made evident in bold fashion yesterday.

A. B. Styles, member of Post No. 198 of the American Legion, drafted the following resolution and circulated it among the Legion patients at the hospital for signatures:

INDORSED BY PATIENTS.

Be it resolved, That the American Legion, in national convention assembled, go on record as indorsing and approving of the conduct of the officials and the courtesy and treatment extended to the patients at the United States Public Health Service Hospital, No. 36, Parker Hill, Boston, Mass.

The State commander of the Legion will be requested to submit the resolution to the national convention. Signing the petition for the adoption of the resolution are the following patients:

A. B. Styles, John J. Manning, Edwin W. Streeter, Terence Mecham, Joseph J. Carbone, Edward A. Duhis, William H. Jones, Dean Scott, Arthur J. Walter, Jasper B. Shaw, Cornelius P. Collins, John A. Pelletier's City Club Speech

If His Charges Are True He Should Tell Public What Men Asked and Received the Favors

We read District Attorney Pelletier's remarks at the City Club Tuesday night with approval. Quite apart from any story as to whether or not Mr. Pelletier has conducted his office as it ought to be conducted is the question whether we are going to make flesh of one set of men and fowl of another.

The Boston American holds no brief for any set of men in this community. Human nature does not vary much in any stratum of society. We all seek our own interests according to the opportunities which are afforded to do so. But it should be the ideal goal of the whole people so to establish and order their government that no class may successfully seek any special privilege or immunities. If it is true, as Mr. Pelletier charges, that those who are criticising him and are proposing to prosecute him are men who are attempting to weed other people's vices and let theirs grow, it is his duty, not in his own interest but in the public interest, to cast aside delicacies, even to cast aside the danger that he may himself be criticised, and tell the people of his district and of the State who these men are and the nature of the special favors they sought and received.

The considerations of the district attorney's office are not like kisses, they do not go by favor. An improper favor granted to one class of lawyers and one class of clients is just as bad as an improper favor granted to any other class. This, of course, is axiomatic in a democratic government.

Passport System Should Go

It Is a Hangover From the Dark Ages and Is Inconsistent With Principles of Freedom

It is reported from Paris that the French Government proposes to recommend to the great disarmament conference, which will foregather in Washington next month, the abolition of the passport system. We hope that this report is true and that the recommendation of the French Government will be adopted by the nations represented at the conference.

The passport system is an intolerable nuisance. It serves no useful purpose at all commensurate with its disadvantages and the badness of the principle which underlies it. It is a hangover from the dark ages—a relic of serfdom and an inheritance of the institution of slavery itself. It was a device of tyrannical governments which assumed the control of their people as chattels.

With the most elementary principles of freedom the passport system is utterly inconsistent. A whimpersnapper in the State Department who denies you arbitrarily a passport to go where you please in the world, in principle binds you down to soil just as much as if you were a common serf.

The Wilson administration for two years after the war closed, used the passport system as viciously and tyrannically as it was ever used by a Czar of Russia or any other older and more classic tyrant. If you wanted to go to Europe on business you had to apply to the State Department for permission, and if some insignificant, preposterous understrapper didn't like your politics or something else about you, he bound you down to the American soil as if you were a German or a Russian serf several centuries ago.

Whether the French attitude on passports comes from an awakening sense that the world is small under modern conditions and that neighborliness and absolute freedom of intercourse is the one great harmonious undertone of civilized progress; or whether her attitude towards the passports arises from its inconvenience to the French tourist business, we do not know. But we hope and believe that France is disinterested on this important question.

It means a great deal to the world to have a France which has awakened from her imperialistic dreams and is beginning to contribute towards the liberal progress of mankind.

Presenting Claims for Votes

Old-Fashioned Joint Debate Best Method of Bringing Out the Truth About Candidates

The Boston Central Labor Union has issued an invitation to all candidates for Mayor to appear before it to present their claims for the labor vote. The leading women's political organization did the same thing last week, with good results.

It is a practice which ought to be stimulated and become general. Ex-parte presentation of the merits of the candidates only results in a very unsatisfactory political campaign. It leads to exaggeration and dishonesty on the part of the speakers, and to partisanship and ignorance on the part of the voters.

The old-fashioned joint debate is the best method of bringing out the truth. A man who knows that his informed opponent is listening and ready to correct his misstatements and mitigate his exaggerations will be very careful how he misstates and exaggerates. It also tends to quicken the wits and develop the faculty of discrimination in the public.

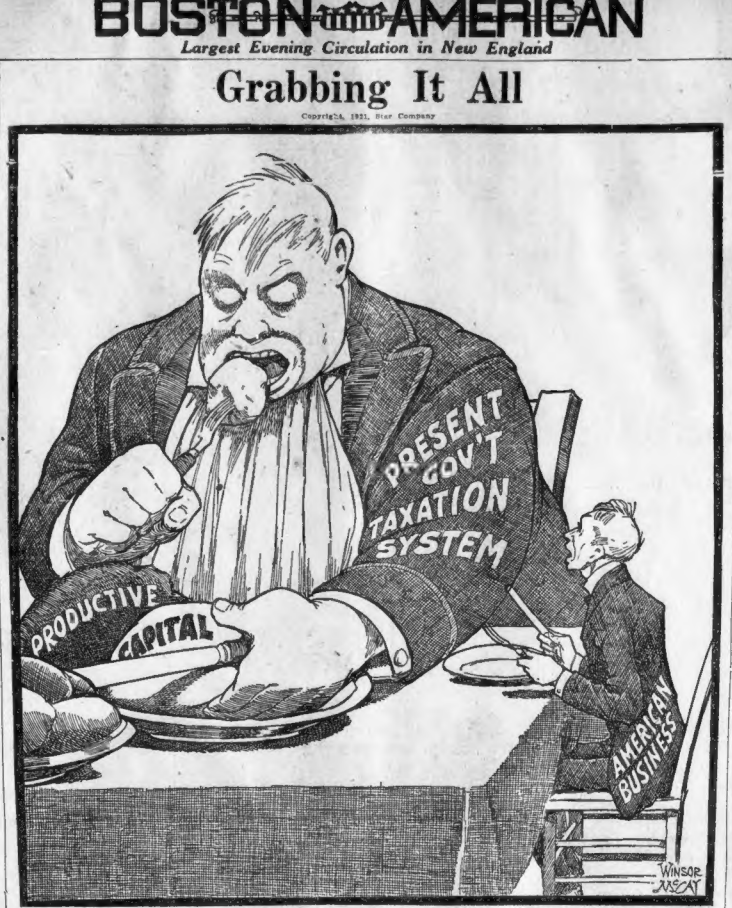

Interstate Trucking Lines

Mayor Peters' Suggestion in Event of a Railroad Tieup Is Wise and Timely

The Boston American is impressed with the wisdom and timeliness of Mayor Peters' suggestion to Governor Cox that we anticipate any tieup of our railroads in the controversy between the managers and the men, by organizing a system of interstate trucking. Governor Cox has doubtless thought of this himself, but it does no harm to receive a suggestion.

We do not believe that the railroad men will prevent milk from being transported. They never have been ruthless to our knowledge. In Seattle, where they completely controlled the situation, they not only permitted milk to come in but aided it with their efforts, and they also did everything that was a necessary for the health of the community.

Grabbing It All

BUSINESS cannot flourish without capital. That is obvious. Everybody wants business revival. It means work, wages, contentment. Yet Government, as Mr. McCay's striking cartoon shows, continues to seize an undue proportion of productive capital, leaving the plate of business bare. That gluttonous tax appetite will have to be halted if business is to thrive.

INDIA AND WORLD DISARMAMENT

She Refuses to Remain Part of British Imperial System Which Is Menacing America, Says Professor Das, and Will Have Own Delegates at Conference

By Prof. Taraknath Das

It has been reported that India will be represented in the coming conference on "Limitation of Armaments," to be held in Washington, D. C., by Indian delegates, chosen and appointed by the British Indian government.

This is a plan of the British government to mislead the people of the world, and particularly the American people, that India is with Britain in her plan of having the biggest navy in the world, which will, of course, menace America.

The Indian people have nothing to do with the British government, and, under the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi, have boycotted the British government completely; have issued manifestos to boycott the Prince of Wales' visit to India; have asked the Indian soldiers to give up all their connections with the British army and have already established direct foreign relations with all States bordering India.

To Control Asia

The Indian people have nothing to do with Britain's plan of the "League of Nations," in which she has made India a part to get an extra vote. The Indian people regard Britain's present policy in India as an attempt to control Asia through India's resources, man-power and strategic position. The present plan of the British government is to create their separate navies, over and above the British Grand Fleet, such as the Canadian Navy, the Australian Navy, the South African Navy and also a separate navy for India to control the Indian Ocean and the China Sea.

Republican India is opposed to the British Naval Policy of making Singapore the biggest naval base in Asia. Singapore with the biggest naval base will not only menace India in her struggle for independence, but, as it is only 1900 miles from Manila, which is inadequately fortified, will menace the Philippine Islands in case of a war between Britain and America.

Republican India is opposed to the Anglo-Japanese alliance because it strengthens Britain's strangle-hold over all Asia, particularly China and India. According to the existing Anglo-Japanese alliance Japan is bound to help England preserve the territorial integrity of the empire in the Far East and India. During the World War, Indian rebels took possession of Singapore for a few days and Britain recovered control of the port through Japanese naval aid.

The Anglo-Japanese alliance menaces America because there is nothing that can prevent Japan from aiding Britain in case hostility breaks out between Britain and America. It is a misconception that the existing Arbitration Treaty between Britain and America makes war between Britain and America an impossibility; there is nothing in the Arbitration Treaty which may force America to arbitrate any issue which involves national honor or vital interest, as the Panama Canal toll question. Republican India is opposed to Britain's plan of world domination and refuses to be associated with Britain.

India wants a navy, certainly not as an adjunct of the British Navy, but a navy of an Indian State, free and independent of all foreign control, so that the Indian Navy, in time of need, will be an ally of the American Navy to uphold the rights of all nations.

Greatest Menace

The British Navy is the greatest menace to the freedom of the seas. India does not want a penny of her money spent for the aggrandizement of British Imperialism. Britain's military expenditure in India alone is $66,091,600, or $305,458,000 for 1919-1920, excluding the expenses for military railroads (page 133 Statesman's Year Book 1921), which is bigger than that of the total military and naval expenditure of Japan, with a total of $132,471,074 (page 1043 Statesman's Year Book 1921.)

India cannot remain a part of the Imperial System of Britain which is menacing America. India will have her own representation free from British connections in the coming disarmament conference, with a delegation of Indians and American advisers, who stand for a Republic of the United States of India.

The Friends of Freedom for India and the American Commission to Promote Self-Government in India will endeavor to present India's case before the coming conference, separately from that of the British delegation.

CANADA FEELS HONORED BY OFFER OF MR. HEARST

Montreal, Oct. 19.

In a long leading editorial under the heading, "Mr. Hearst Honors Canada," the influential Montreal Star says:

"The proposal made by William Randolph Hearst to bring to Canada, and so convince it he of its efficacy and of its advantages that he is eager to see it enacted in the United States.

"Canada is complimented by the testimonial of Mr. Hearst as to the excellence of the laws that her legislators have placed on the statute books. It is, indeed, seldom that Mr. Hearst has praise for British institutions and British legislation, but his willingness to spend a large sum of money in bringing the legislators of his own country into close contact with the workings of a law for which he has such respect is positive evidence of his approval. . . .

"Mr. Hearst is offering to conduct the legislators of this country to Canada to see the workings of a law of which he approves and which he thinks would benefit trade of the United States—and incidentally, it may be imagined, curtail the commerce of America's greatest rival—just as he would conduct a party to Peru or Czecho-Slovakia, Soviet Russia or Brazil if he thought that by so doing he could induce the lawmakers of his country to pass legislation of which he approves.

"Canada will indorse the invitation of Mr. Hearst most warmly, because she believes that if the Congressmen of the United States come over singly or in battalions they will learn something more than the workings of the sales tax. . . . They will find a land so rich in natural resources that they will not need the vision of seers to see the day in which the dominion will be the natural rival of the great republic to the south for the commerce of the world."

RATTLES THE CUBES

Mrs. Hoyle—My husband is a cubist.

Alas! So was her head.

PICK YOUR CONFESSOR WISELY IF YOU CAN

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

IN days now happily distant, when still it was part of our daily need to read some new and spicy details of the Stillman case, we learned much of the part played by a certain physician in Buffalo.

It appears that Mrs. Stillman paid several visits to this man for osteopathic treatment. Duly, this Dr. Russell was brought into the case as a witness, in order to testify concerning certain incriminating confessions supposed to have been made by his patient.

The law cannot reach such a man, either to compel betrayal or to punish him for it. His personality or his conscience could alone determine his conduct.

However, the professional ethics of his fellow-osteopaths made prompt pronouncement on this score, when, in annual convention assembled, they denounced his action.

Professional Honor

We cannot choose but think that thereby these physicians maintained the honor of their profession; and, at the same time, they voiced the general contempt for what our moral sense instinctively condemns as perfidy.

The physician fairly shares with priest or clergyman of whatever denomination the sacred responsibility of receiving the solemn confidences of people.

Indeed, the lawyer, too, has herein joined his fellows of what used to be called the learned profession. He also enters into most intimately confidential relations with his clients.

Much substantial loss would come to society, if we could not trust our confessors. The "confessional" must be kept sacred and secret, be it the clergyman's, the physician's, or the lawyer's.

Not only as a churchly institution but as a common custom, the confessional is so deep a human need that we could not well dispense therewith. Therefore, we face its betrayal with a feeling akin to dismay. Indeed, by subconscious sympathy, we seem to have been personally assaulted.

The writer once knew a physician who specialized in extremely nervous cases. In fact, they were usually pathological. Under such conditions, the doctor needs to know the most intimate facts about his subject; and, as a rule, the patient is only too ready to pour forth all he knows—and much that he imagines.

This particular (or, as it proved, none-too-particular) physician had a way of using the knowledge thus gained in the confessional of his office, not only as added means of treating his patients, but as a serviceable reservior upon which he could draw for the purpose of blackmailing both the patient and others involved in the confessions.

Peculiar Sanctity

That man was not a physician, but a robbing rascal, a masquerading wolf! The writer did not hesitate long about exposing the essential criminality of the man.

We do not always go to clergyman, physician, or lawyer with our confessions. Frequently, perhaps with matters of less concern to our immortal souls, we go to someone whom we regard as worthy of our confidence and make that person the depository of our precious secrets.

That is a relationship of peculiar sanctity. Certainly it honors the recipient as trustee of your soul's choice treasure, the while it puts you in his power and at his mercy.

It partakes of the character of hospitality, for you have practically invited your confessor to your heart's home and have asked him into its most private chambers.

When such confidence is violated, the act assaults our finest instincts, and the violator has outlawed himself by treason against the soul's own law, too fine to be recorded in mere statute books.

However, the fault is not always on one side. The unworthy recipient of confidence probably has his unworthiness written upon his face. It is more than mere misfortune when you foolishly make him your confidant.

Yould should choose your confessor wisely, confident that your confession not only eases your aching heart, but is housed in sympathy and secrecy.

Your confession is a token of your humility and pain. It brings a tribute of honor to the confessor. It should be humbly and as honorably be received by him.

PREJUDICE HAS OFTEN MARRED LIVES

By Winifred Black

BEWARE of prejudice, warned the wise man when the club breakfast was over, and the brilliant, though irascible guest of the day had gone away, with smiles just chasing the frowns he had given us ever some question that had arisen.

I can't remember whether it was India or China, Japan or the globes, Shakespeare or the musical glasses, which aroused the lion's wrath. But we felt the weight of his displeasure, and had at the same time taken the measurement of it as coming mostly from indulgence in extreme irrational prejudice.

We were silent, most of us, because we had to be silent, while our guest roared out his verdict on whatever he was talking about. In the small nothings of conversation and social intercourse, our friend was perfect. But when it came to things of moment—and there is always room for difference of views in such things—the lion of our social circle roared, and "such a roar as might do any man's heart good," if a sustained noise were to his notion.

"No One's Always Right"

"The trouble is," said the wise man when the lion had gone, "Sampson is so often right. But no one is always right about everything, and when the time comes for some one else to take the other side of the question, the man goes mad. The pity of it is that Sampson never listens to any one, or, if he does, it has to be some one who rubs his fur the right way. And so his prejudices are left undisturbed. In fact, Sampson pampers his prejudices until he spoils his really brilliant mind.

"'Worriation is when you takes a tune and you worries it. You play it soft and you plays it loud and you makes it go fast and you shivers it slow. That's what you call worriations.'"

It is nothing less than a shock when you run into the hard thrust of prejudice, when you are hearing a clever man or woman talk. Curious, isn't it, how the letting of the mind accept without question, foregone conclusions, sterilizes and kills all spontaneous thinking and speaking.

Prejudiced Man Defeats Self

For the surrender to prejudice creates an unfair mind. Refusal to hear the other side of a question is disastrous to clear thinking. An open mind is the best kind of a mind in man or woman. To look with sane interest upon the side you have habitually ignored—this is good practice for us all.

Suppose we have heard all that can be said, at this stage of the world's development, on certain questions, from one man's viewpoint. By this time we are surely looking the other way. We are in danger of adopting the very attitude we so much dislike, out of opposition to the prejudiced frame of mind with which we are incensed.

So the prejudiced man defeats himself. He can go on saying "Blue is green" until the crack of doom, or he can say "Blue is blue." We are not interested in hearing about blue from him. He is prejudiced about blue, and we are prejudiced about him.

We must do something to forget all about this very irritating man before we converse with him —or, rather, allow him to converse with us, again.

LEARN TO SAVE A LITTLE

You can live cheaper than during the war period; most things cost less, but are you not spending all you earn, anyway?

As a wage-earner your job may not have been marked by increase of income during the war, and you had to do close figuring to get through and keep out of debt, but you did it.

Now, when you have an opportunity to save something by keeping up the economies you practiced at that time you are limited only by what you earn—you spend it all.

But even if you saved half the difference in the changed conditions you might be starting a bank account.

You may be one of those who had a big increase to pay, and you adopted a mode of living accordingly bigger, which manner of living you cannot maintain with a reduced wage, but you are trying to maintain it.

Cut your plans to "fit your cloth" and be happy and sensible, even if you have a decreased income.
